Roger Monteith, well-known Fort Street sporting goods merchant, can hardly wait for the city to get rid of its one-way street system. He and other merchants have raised strenuous objection to one-way traffic ever since its introduction, January 20. The Times' artist has tried to satisfy Mr.

Monteith by crossing out part of the one-way street sign he finds objectionable. He still doesn't look too happy. Wednesday afternoon he will be fully satisfied. City workmen intend to remove this and other signs altogether, and reopen street to two-way traffic at 3 p.m. See story, Page 11.

Brazilian Dictator Deposed, Kills Self

U.S. WOULD DEFEND FORMOSA ISLES-DULLES

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. State Secretary Dulles said today American forces would be justified in defending some Nationalist-held islands between Formosa and the Chinese mainland from any Communist attack.

Dulles told a press conference it would be up to American military leaders to decide which islands in addition to Formosa they want to defend as part of their overall strategy for aiding the Chinese Nationalist stronghold.

Dulles spoke up in the face of talk by Peiping of "liberating" the island of Formosa, now held by Chiang Kai-shek and the Chinese Nationalists. U.S. leaders have been inclined to discount the Peiping talk.

President Eisenhower already is on record as saying the U.S. 7th Fleet would protect Formosa from a Red attack. Dulles appeared to be extending this line of reasoning by including some of the smaller Chiang-held islands near Formosa.

U.S. Urges Mendes-France To Push EDC

Treaty Slated for Vote In Assembly Next Week

PARIS (UP)—The United States urged Premier Pierre Mendes-France today to attempt to push ratification of the European Defense Community through the National Assembly, informed sources reported.

Mendes-France returned to Paris this morning from the Brussels EDC conference and talks Monday at Chartwell, England, with British Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

He met almost immediately with U.S. Ambassador to France C. Douglas Dillon to report on the Churchill meeting and his failure to win modification at Brussels of the proposed joint western army plan.

The sources said Dillon urged the 47-year-old premier to try to jam the EDC ratification through the assembly.

Mendes-France was said by the sources to have told Dillon he would put the treaty up to the assembly next week for a vote, but would not put pressure on the House by making it the subject of a vote of confidence in his government.

Will seek formula. The premier also outlined to the American ambassador his intention to restore sovereignty to West Germany, and then try to find a formula to rearm Germany within certain limits under the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

American sources said this would mean lengthy delays in getting Germans into uniform in defense of western Europe against Communist aggression. It also would bury the idea of a unified Europe for a long time.

Mendes-France returned to the capital this morning after reporting to President Rene Coty in Normandy on the Brussels meeting and his talks with Churchill.

Jealousy Cause For Suicide, Double Murder

16-Year-Old Girl Shot to Death

BRANDON, Man. (CP)—A soldier's jealousy on seeing a girl he liked with a younger soldier was blamed today in what police described as a double murder and suicide Monday night at nearby Camp Shilo.

The girl lived at the camp with her parents, Cpl. and Mrs. Edgar W. Hamer.

Cpl. Hamer, a member of the Royal Canadian Engineers, blamed the soldier's jealousy for the shooting.

FOUND BODIES. An unidentified non-commissioned officer stumbled upon the bodies of the girl and one soldier when he rushed into an open field, 50 yards east of the Shilo townsite, to investigate two shots. Both had been slain by bullets from a .303 rifle.

The victims were Yvonne Hamer, 16, of Camp Shilo, a 17-year-old soldier, companion and a 28-year-old soldier. Army authorities withheld the soldiers' names until next-of-kin are notified.

The girl was described as a "very good looking, petite brunette."

Her companion was a husky, six-foot, blond youth. He was wearing a uniform.

The older soldier was described as five feet nine inches tall and becoming bald. He was dressed in civilian clothes.

IN BARRACKS. Shortly afterwards, the second soldier was found semi-conscious in a barracks room of the Royal Canadian Engineers with a .303 bullet wound in his chest. He died a short time later.

Speaking of the second soldier, Cpl. Hamer said: "This guy was so crazy about her, and I guess he couldn't stand anyone else being with her. That's about all there is to it."

The girl was a native of Stockton, Man., and had lived at the camp with her parents for seven years. She left school last year.

Clifford Dawley, 44-year-old son of a former Esquimalt police chief, blazed his way into headlines here and in San Francisco in the "roaring thirties" through spectacular gun battles with police.

City police authorities said today that they did not believe Dawley would go into hiding in this vicinity.

"He is too well known here and would be cutting off simple escape routes were he to come back to the Island," they thought.

His escape from Oakalla prison farm Monday was effected with the same daring he used in outwitting guards while at a Vancouver hospital in March. At that time he arranged to go to hospital with a simulated back injury.

He eluded from a window clad only in a nightshirt. But police picked him up in Montreal and shipped him back to Oakalla.

Monday he was being escorted from the exercise yards to the cells when he made a dash for the fence surrounding the prison piggery.

Search centred in Surrey after a motorist told police he gave a man answering Dawley's description a lift across the Pattullo Bridge. Later, police said he was "positively identified" being given a lift in a car heading for the border.

Dawley had been serving a six-month term for assault of a Duncan officer when he made his first break last March. He was also awaiting two charges of car theft and one of possession of house-breaking tools.

His flight may have been spurred by desperation when reports emanated from RCMP officers that an habitual criminal charge was also to be laid. It could mean that Dawley would spend the rest of his life behind bars.

Fires Bullet Into Heart Night of Wrangling Ends in Turmoil

RIO DE JANEIRO (Reuters).—All members of the Brazilian cabinet offered their resignations to the new president, Cafe Filho, this afternoon, the Brazilian radio announced.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (UP)—President Getulio Vargas, 71, wrote a suicide note bequeathing: "My death to the hatred of my enemies" early today, then fired a fatal bullet into his heart as a bitter climax to Brazil's political crisis. "I regret I was unable to do all I wanted for the humble," the note said.

The suicide followed a night of wrangling and a dawn decision reached in conference with his cabinet and high army and air force officials who had demanded his resignation. Vargas had agreed to a 90-day "leave of absence."

He had been in power much of the time for nearly 25 years. Brazil's Vice-President Joao Cafe took over automatically as head of state.

At first, Rio was stunned by the news. Then, as all radio stations played funeral music and flags on government buildings flew at half staff, Vargas sympathizers began roaming the streets.

The demonstrators overturned and set fire to three newspaper delivery trucks rushing afternoon editions to newsstands. The trucks belonged to the afternoon newspaper O Globo.

But while the demonstrators aimed most of their fury at Lacerda, he and his family were reported safe at Galeao airbase near the city.

The new president declared Vargas, suicide but called upon Brazilians to "render Dr. Getulio

POSTERS TORN DOWN. They tore down election posters of the opposition Union Democratica Nacional Party, and attacked newstands having copies of Tribuna Da Imprensa, whose editor, Carlos Lacerda, once was ranked by Vargas as "my number one enemy."

The political crisis resulted from an attack, presumably aimed at Lacerda, which caused the death of Air Force Maj. Rubens F. Vaz on Aug. 5. Lacerda escaped, though wounded.

SHOT HEARD. Then he entered his own room and closed the door. A short time later a shot was heard.

The one-time dictator's body was found sprawled on his bed, a revolver near his right hand. The body was found by Vargas' son, Lutero, who earlier this month had been accused of ordering the attack in which Air Force Maj. Vaz was killed.

Four minutes after Vargas died, Gen. Calisto De Castro, chief of the presidential military household, and Finance Minister Oswaldo Aranha arrived.

Aranha wept at the sight of his lifelong friend. At 9.30 a.m. (5.30 a.m. PDT) Vargas' body still was in his room, surrounded by his family.

19-Gun Salute Will Welcome Mayhew Home. A 19-gun salute will boom from army guns at Work Point when Hon. Robert W. Mayhew, retiring Canadian ambassador to Japan, returns home Thursday afternoon.

Mr. Mayhew is officially ambassador until his successor, Hon. T. C. Davis, presents letters of recall in Tokyo. Until that time he is entitled to all honors due his diplomatic status.

Mr. Mayhew is to arrive in San Francisco today, aboard the U.S. liner President Wilson. He will travel to Seattle Wednesday, where his son Logan will meet him. On Thursday morning they will board HMCS New Glasgow, frigate attached to the RCN Pacific Command.

New Glasgow and her sister ship, HMCS Stettler, today are in Seattle in the course of an operational training cruise.

As the ship carrying the ambassador passes Work Point on the way to Esquimalt harbor, the 19-gun salute will be fired. New Glasgow is due at HMC Dockyard at approximately 2.30 p.m.

POMONA, Calif. (AP)—If you read in your sports pages next month where Foot Goose and Fancy Free ran one-two at Eider Downs, don't be misled into thinking a new horse-racing track has opened.

Eider Downs is the name of the new 70-foot track at the Los Angeles county fair grounds and the ducks will be off and waddling over it Sept. 17-Oct. 3.

Yes sir, Indian Runner ducks, noted for speed and egg-laying ability, are going to hot-foot it over Eider Downs daily for the amusement of thousands of spectators. There will be no pari-mutual betting, however.

Favorite for the canvassback handicap opening day is Native Gander, but he is suffering from a recurring eye ailment. Eligibility rules place no bar on ducks with names resembling geese.

Winners of the bigger races will get an extra handful of choice grain, and their portraits will be painted on a large mural.

The ducks are trained to run over the track, which is patterned after the quarter-horse tracks, by placing grain at the end of the lane. They learn fast, and the few who disdain the sport are retired to the laying bins, where they really star. One set a European record of 360 eggs in 365 days.

PUC to Advise On Power Line In Saanich

Council Will Ask Guidance
In Settling Dispute With BCE

Saanich Council will ask the Public Utilities Commission for "guidance" on how it can settle the controversial issue between Saanich householders and the B.C. Electric Co. over a proposed 132,000-volt overhead transmission line through residential areas in the municipality.

This new development in the "power case" was the outcome of a meeting Monday night between councillors, the Saanich Voters' Association and the Town Planning Commission.

Acting Reeve George Austin told the meeting that as no agreement was in sight on the power line dispute, he intended to seek the advice of the Public Utilities Commission on what steps the council should take to settle the contentious issue.

Mr. Austin said the PUC will be asked, first, if it can supply an independent engineer to "investigate" the costs of sinking the proposed transmission line underground.

(2) If Saanich Council can prevent the B.C. Electric Co. from erecting overhead power lines in the municipality.

(3) The best method of arbitrating the dispute between Saanich householders and the company.

The acting reeve said he would report the result of his discussions with PUC officials at a public meeting to be held at the Womens Institute Hall August 31.

Monday's meeting, called to discuss ways and means of solving the five-month-old dispute.

Issue Interests Every Municipality

Fred Maurice, an authority on land development, described the issue as a "test case which involved every municipality in the province and taxpayer."

Pointing out that the B.C. Electric planned to erect other similar substations in the municipality, Mr. Maurice said these power substations would in turn devalue the properties of hundreds of other residents.

"We've got to stop it now," he said, "or the municipality and the ratepayers will suffer."

He pointed out that the B.C. Electric Co. had sunk similar transmission lines from their power substation in Burnaby to the Vancouver power station.

"If the company can do it for Vancouver," he added, "it can do the same thing for Saanich."

Mr. Maurice said he saw no reason why the municipality should have to foot the bill for sinking the cables underground.

Hungarian Bishop Denies Being Red

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Hungarian bishop John Peter said Monday he is not a Communist, not a Soviet "informer" and that Christians are free to criticize the Red government in his country.

The bishop, target of various charges since he came here to attend the World Council of Churches assembly, made his comments in written replies to 32 questions from newspaper men.

Speaking for a five-man delegation representing the Lutherans and Reformed churches of Hungary his unusually direct answers illustrated the position of leading clergymen now serving churches in the Red area.

He defended the Communist regime as providing an atmosphere in which Christianity can flourish, and said he felt Americans "fail to get a true picture" of conditions in his country.

He said it "is not true" that he has informed on other clergymen, resulting in their prosecution. To state department reports that it had information he may have done so.

Bishop Peter said: "Those authorities which released such statements have false information."

The bishop was admitted to the United States under a visa restricting him to assembly activities.

Labor Minister Gregg Hints at Ottawa Action Before TLC Convention

REGINA (CP)—Labor Minister Gregg said today the federal government, which last week brought about railway-union acceptance of arbitration in a strike-threatened contract dispute, dislikes compulsion in labor relations.

The minister spoke to the annual convention of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada a day after rail union chief Frank H. Hall of Montreal said the arbitration agreement under government pressure deprived workers of the basic right to strike.

The disputants, after more than eight months of negotiations over union demands for fringe benefits, bowed to arbitration at Ottawa last Wednesday after the government had indicated it would call in Parliament to enact emergency legislation, staving off a strike.

"I can tell you," Mr. Gregg said, "that the Canadian government and all those who serve in it dislike the idea of compulsion in labor matters just as much as any of you here."

SPEAKS TO 650
The minister spoke in an address prepared for delivery to some 650 delegates including representatives of most of the unions engaged in the multi-million-dollar rail dispute.

While he did not say that the arbitration procedure—a process distasteful to labor generally—will set a pattern for future dealings in national rail disputes, he did suggest that something like this may be in the offing.

"What can be achieved," he said, "is limited sometimes by economic factors which may be beyond the control of the employers or of the industry or of government."

"It was evident last week that the management recognized the fact that the people of Canada have the right to expect an efficient and uninterrupted railway service . . . but also an improvement in the labor-management relations in their industry."

"The duty which imposes itself upon all of us, arising out of Canada's vital dependency upon an uninterrupted railway service, was the compelling influence which dictated the expression of willingness to arbitrate the matters in dispute."

IMPROVE INSURANCE
Mr. Gregg also told the convention that he hopes to bring in legislation at the next session of Parliament to improve the federal government's unemployment insurance setup.

He gave no details but there has been speculation that there will be an increase in the size of weekly benefits paid to jobless from the $900,000,000 unemployment insurance fund.

Dealing with another aspect of unemployment, the minister said, too, that the federal government is planning to arrange the timing of public works so that maximum employment will be afforded in the winter months of slackness in jobs.

Fishermen Appeal Suspension

REGINA (CP)—The Trades and Labor Congress of Canada is expected to receive today a committee report recommending against re-admission of the Red-riddled West Coast Fishermen's Union, suspended last year.

On the second day of its annual convention, the congress is to hear an appeal by the 6,000-member union against its suspension by the TLC executive on the ground of Communist domination.

However, the officers' reports committee, which has been taking evidence on the issue during the last few days, likely will recommend against re-admitting the union and advance indications are that the congress will go along with the recommendation.

Up until its suspension last fall, the coast organization, the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union of British Columbia, had been the last survivor of a four-year purge of Communists in the TLC.

The committee recommendation, it was understood, will include concurrence with the action of the executive and an invitation to individual fishermen to toss the left-wing union overboard and become directly affiliated with the congress.

Attlee, Laborites Meet Red China Boss Mao Tse-tung

PEIPING (Reuters)—Mao Tse-tung, Communist China's top leader, accompanied by his senior advisers, today met British Labor party leader Clement Attlee at Ching Chen Tien, near here.

It was the first time Mao had met a ranking western politician since he became chairman of the central people's government in 1949.

Mao invited Prime Minister Chou En-lai to attend the meeting along with his vice-chairman, Liu Shao Chi, and Li Chi Shen, and four vice-premiers.

Several other high Communist Chinese officials were present at the meeting.

The assemblage of Communist leaders to accompany Mao to the meeting was by far the most impressive yet brought together to meet Attlee and his party.

Premier Chou was the highest official they had talked with previously in their 10 days in this country.

70 More Crime Gang Nabbed by Airforce

'Will Not Tolerate Few Bad Apples Spoiling Barrel of Good American Boys'

RANTOUL, Ill. (UP)—Seventy more airmen were rounded up for questioning at nearby Chanute Air Force base in an investigation of the vicious "Pachuco" gang of tattooed hoodlums.

Air force officers have already jailed 30 airmen on suspicion of being the hard core of the gang, which glorifies rape, narcotics addiction and crimes of violence.

Maj. Gen. Byron E. Gateau, base commander, order court martial proceedings against all airmen proven to be members of the gang.

"The air force will not tolerate a few bad apples spoiling a barrel of good American boys," he said.

FROM HERO TO 'PUNK'

Adenauer Saviour Up for Robbery

MUNICH, Germany (UP)—Bruno Beyersdorf was just another teenage punk when he appeared today before a judge on his ninth robbery charge.

But two years ago Bruno Beyersdorf saved Chancellor Konrad Adenauer from death in an assassination attempt and was the toast of Germany.

Two years ago a hero, today just another juvenile delinquent. Like the teenage hoodlums who have been terrorizing New York, Bruno is one of the many of young delinquents who have sprung up in the postwar Germany.

But when his name came up on the court docket, it struck a familiar chord—in the judge's mind.

"Bruno Beyersdorf . . . the judge mused.

"Weren't you that youngster who saved Chancellor Adenauer from the bomb?"

"Yes," replied Bruno.

"The boy whose picture was in all the newspapers when the chancellor gave you that gold watch?"

"Yes."

"Maybe it all went to your head," the judge said.

Maybe it did. The facts are these:

On March 27, 1932, Bruno notified postal authorities that a foreign-looking man had given him a bulky-looking package to mail in Munich's main post office.

Bruno said he thought it was funny that the package was addressed to "Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, Bundeshaus, Bonn."

So did the post office people. They put a couple of their men on the package and ordered it opened.

When they did, the package exploded, killing one postal inspector and injuring two others.

Bruno's quick-wittedness had saved the chancellor. He became a national hero.

The chancellor invited Bruno to his home, treated him royally and showered him with gifts while photographers' flashbulbs popped.

But something went wrong. In a few months, Bruno lost his job. Laziness, his boss said. The police caught Bruno the first time last June 22.

They traced seven more robberies to him.

METEORS HERE TO STAY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Aviation Week magazine said Monday two meteors have become satellites of the earth and are revolving with it 400 to 600 miles out in space.

The McGraw-Hill publication said discovery of the celestial bodies "threw the air force into a flap"—a state of confusion—this summer.

It said alarm over the sightings ended only after Dr. Lincoln La Paz, head of the extra-terrestrial bodies institute at the University of New Mexico, definitely identified them as natural rather than man-made.

Pilot Safe, Observer Dies In Jet Crash

War Hero Guides Plane Away From Ont. Villages

PICKERING, Ont. (CP)—One of Canada's top test pilots remained at the controls of a CF-100 jet fighter when it exploded Monday and bailed out safely after he had guided it away from two villages. But his observer was killed in the crash.

The jet crashed into a farmer's field near this village 22 miles east of Toronto seconds after pilot Jan Zurakowski of Toronto bailed out at 2,000 feet. The victim was identified by A. V. Roe Canada Ltd. officials as John Hebert, 28, of Toronto, a flight test observer. Hebert is survived by his widow in Toronto and parents in Winnipeg.

Zurakowski, Polish-born ace of the battle of Britain in the Second World War and a test pilot for Avro, suffered a broken leg when he landed less than 300 yards from the jet's scattered wreckage. An ejection seat-parachute escape was credited with saving his life.

The jet was undergoing its first test since coming off the assembly line of Avro's Malton plant, 15 miles northwest of Toronto.

Reds Brand U.S. With 'Violence'

Russian Note Protests Asylum Given Defecting Envoy Rastvorov

WASHINGTON (UP)—Russia has charged the United States with "an act of violence" in the case of Soviet diplomat-spy Yuri A. Rastvorov, who has been given asylum in this country, diplomatic sources reported today.

The charge was made in a long note delivered by a Soviet embassy messenger to the state department Monday night.

The note was signed by Dr. Lincoln La Paz, head of the extra-terrestrial bodies institute at the University of New Mexico, definitely identified them as natural rather than man-made.

The Soviet note reiterated previous Soviet charges that American intelligence agencies had taken Rastvorov out of Japan after he disappeared on the night of Jan. 24 from his diplomatic post in Tokyo.

The note said, according to informants, that Russia "considers this act of violence" in the Rastvorov case as violating elementary standards of international law.

The note said Russia held the United States government wholly responsible for "such actions."

State department officials confirmed receipt of the note. They said it was about "what had been expected." They said the note, however, had not been fully studied and it was impossible to say whether a reply would be made.

The state department on Aug. 13 disclosed that Rastvorov had fled the Soviet mission in Japan on Jan. 24 and had asked asylum.

At the same time, Rastvorov appeared at the state department and told reporters he had rejected his homeland because "I wanted to live like a decent human being."

The Soviet note was said to have complained that the United States, over a period of some six months, had refused to admit it held Rastvorov.

A Ray of Sanity

THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT is spending $250 millions a year merely to pay for the storage of national wheat surplus, in addition to paying the farmer for his crop. And of course the farmer would be encouraged to continue producing too much wheat if he were permanently guaranteed an inflexible high price for it.

It is thus a change of the first importance when the Congress begins at last to rescind the folly of the rigid price support system. Here President Eisenhower has won perhaps his most notable victory in domestic politics. At his demand the Congress has passed a new law by which price supports, formerly pegged at 90 per cent of "parity," are made flexible, though within pretty narrow limits.

This is only a small beginning, but it is a beginning of a return to sane agricultural policies. Considering that the law was changed against the wishes of many farmers in an election year, the wonder is that the President has been able to secure even this first installment of sanity out of the Congress. Other installments will be required, not only in wheat but in many other branches of agriculture.

The Canadian Government's view of support prices has always differed from that of its neighbor. In the United States "parity," a complex formula, is supposed to represent the price which a farmer should receive to keep his income comparable to the income of city workers. The state undertakes to pay him that price, even if the market will not pay it. The current result is the huge accumulation of unsold grain which the taxpayers have paid for, which the Government cannot sell.

Canada has a wheat surplus, too, but it does not result from any price support plan like that of the United States. Our Government, in fact, has never regarded price supports as designed to maintain a high income for the farmer. As Mr. Mackenzie King said in introducing our present law, it is intended to rescue the farmer from the disaster of depression prices, to be a floor only.

It has been used from time to time in some branches of agriculture and in fishing, but it does not apply to wheat. There is no legal floor under the wheat farmer. No doubt he will demand it if prices fall seriously. But there is nothing in the American experience to suggest that we should follow it by rigid and high supports that inevitably aggravate the problem of surplus.

Shock Treatment for Apathy

THE STUDEBAKER WAGE CUT arrangement has already been established as a possible pattern for labor-management procedure where high pay cheques threaten the life of an industry or a company within an industry.

In order to bring their product into a more favorable position on the highly competitive automobile market, union workers accepted lower scales. By that action they protected themselves against extensive layoffs that would have resulted had the plant shut down.

Discussing the matter in The Christian Science Monitor, writer Godfrey Sperling Jr. suggests another pattern has been set on "How to sell a wage cut."

Mr. Sperling cites the opening phase of negotiations during which one labor leader, supported by a relatively small but hard core of union members, rejected the suggestion of a cut. As he puts it:

"... at the first meeting to vote on the wage proposal, only 3,500 workers attended, and in the vote on the measure, no more than 1,000 even bothered to take part in the loosely handled raise-of-hands vote. About 600 voted against the measure and 400 for it. It was apathy losing out to a hard core of dissidents who made it a point to be on hand to vote."

"But by the next meeting, everyone knew the issues, and more than 5,000 workers cast secret ballots for the proposal, compared with the same 600 who controlled the first meeting."

The Americans

SIR HAROLD NICOLSON, WHO cut his political teeth on the Versailles peace conference, is doubtless one of the wisest old men in England, and one of the best-loved members of the journalists' craft. Many Britons therefore listened the other night when he let himself go, in the best Nicolsonian style, on the subject of the United States.

"Once again I repeat," he said, "that the most important single factor in world affairs is the relation between Great Britain and the United States. In the first place, we constitute between us, together with our associates and adherents, by far the greatest power in the modern world. In the second place, our general principles and objectives are identical and are connected with the hopes of the whole free world."

"In the third place, however much we may differ, there does exist between the British mind and the American mind a greater similarity of souls, of minds, or even of habits, than between any other two nations. Our co-operation is not merely desirable, it is an actual physical necessity."

Thus when Sir Harold hears his countrymen grumbling about the Americans and creating bad blood between the two countries he feels "as if they were committing an act of treason. I am as shocked as if I heard them denouncing our connection with other members of the Commonwealth."

This reaction, he adds, is not old-fashioned or sentimental but highly practical, being based on two clear facts: (1) "If we quarrel then the whole free world slips into little pieces, ready to be swallowed by the big red wolf;" (2) "If there is no quarrel then 'our might is overwhelming and no sane person would dare to challenge our superiority by the act of war.'"

Sir Harold speaks with knowledge about the Americans, having spent much time in their country. He concludes that they are "fundamentally decent folk." But even if he disliked them, he would still realize that Britain's union with them is "an essential necessity," an unpleasant pill that must be swallowed. Happily he finds nothing unpleasant about it, for he likes Americans "very much indeed." So does nearly everybody who knows them. Like all peoples, like the British or Canadians for instance, they take a bit of knowing.

Egg Stains on the Vest

THE CRIPPLE CREEK (COLO.) Gold Rush notes the manner in which people on this continent spend money on themselves and their gardens to maintain a meticulous personal tidiness.

"Turn them loose in lands with far more beauty than they have at home and they leave their debris in their tracks," the paper continues. "The streams are loaded with their trash and the public parks are being turned into dumps for refuse and waste."

The disgrace which troubles the editorial mind of the Cripple Creek Gold Rush is shared by most parts of this continent. Families careful of their own appearance and that of their gardens, too frequently revert when they are out picnicking or camping. Behind them they leave a litter of discarded paper, empty cans and bottles.

They may drive home again to a hot tub, a change to fresh clothes and a careful clean-up of house and lot. On their own street they may be models of neatness.

To the person who follows them at the picnic or camping spot they still remain unsavory characters—people who have egg stains on their vests, soup splashes on their ties and greasy lapels on their coats. In that assessment, the camper who comes after the careless camper could be spiritually right.

Song of the Islands

BY JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP, From Washington

AT HIS press conference last week, President Eisenhower was ostentatiously casual about the Chinese Communist threat to Formosa. President Truman's guarantee of Chiang Kai-shek's island is still in force, he said in effect, and so there is nothing to worry about. Behind the scenes, meanwhile, the administration's policy-makers are anything but casual about the Formosa problem. In fact, a rather major policy row is now going on, although as usual the grave issue at stake is being muffled from the general public.

Joseph

The trouble is, very simply, that President Truman's famous guarantee of Formosa was carefully drafted to cover only the big island, and to leave out the smaller, more vulnerable offshore islands that Chiang Kai-shek's forces still hold along the China coast. And the question now is whether to extend the guarantee to cover these islands, or to leave them exposed to capture by the Communists and take the consequences.

Quemoy, which lies only a couple of miles off the big harbor of Amoy, is the most celebrated of these over-water possessions of the Chinese Nationalists. Largest in area are the Pescadores, lying in the Formosa Straits. But the most sensitive at the moment are the small and rocky Tachen Islands, to the north of Formosa and about 20 miles off the China coast.

NOT GUARANTEED

Thus far, American policy has taken careful cognizance of the omission of these islands from the Truman guarantee. They are garrisoned, of course, by the equivalent of about six of Chiang Kai-shek's divisions; but these six divisions have been conspicuously omitted from the 21-division American equipment and training program.

Until very recently, the official theory was that the smaller islands were none of our business. Americans interested in the Chinese Nationalist guerrilla activities were present on the Tachen chain and probably on the Pescadores as well. But they were strictly in false whiskers; and the fiction of their non-existence was carried so comically far that when they were occasionally sighted by journalist-compatriots, they always refused to speak.

Now, however, the official American theory about the offshore islands is breaking down, as was indicated by Admiral Felix Stump's recent visit to Tachen.

The plain truth is that these islands, although they have no value as real estate, have considerable military strategic value because of their position on the approaches to Formosa. And they have even greater political strategic value because they offer the Chinese Communists another tempting way to make an easy score.

The ink was hardly dry on the settlement at Geneva, before Chinese Foreign Minister Chou En-lai broke a long silence on the subject with a loud proclamation that Formosa must now be "liberated" at all costs. A direct attack on Formosa seems highly unlikely, partly because there are no visible Communist preparations for this kind of major enterprise, and mainly because of the American guarantee.

But an attack on off-shore islands, and especially Quemoy and Tachen, would not be a major enterprise. There is no American guarantee to worry about, at least as yet.

Hence, this sort of compromise operation by the Chinese Communists cannot be ruled out in the months to come, especially because it would be an extremely tight proposition.

SHATTERING BLOW

On the one hand, Western and especially American prestige has already suffered a shattering blow in Asia, because of the Indo-Chinese settlement. If the Communists can snatch these little islands from Chiang Kai-shek, under our very noses as it were, Asian respect for American power will be altogether undermined. The doubters, the fence-sitters, the bandwagon watchers, will go over to the Communist cause in droves, in every country from Japan around to India.

On the other hand, the practical and immediate effect in Formosa will also be just as serious as possible. The Chiang regime there is far less popular than its propagandists claim. Its army is aging. Both army and government have always lived on hope, and the hope of a return to the mainland has been all but killed by the Indo-Chinese result. As is his custom in bad times, the generalissimo has been consoling himself with palace politics. And certain of his manoeuvres, such as the replacement of the able, independent and honest army commander, Gen. Sun Li-jen, have been remarkably imprudent.

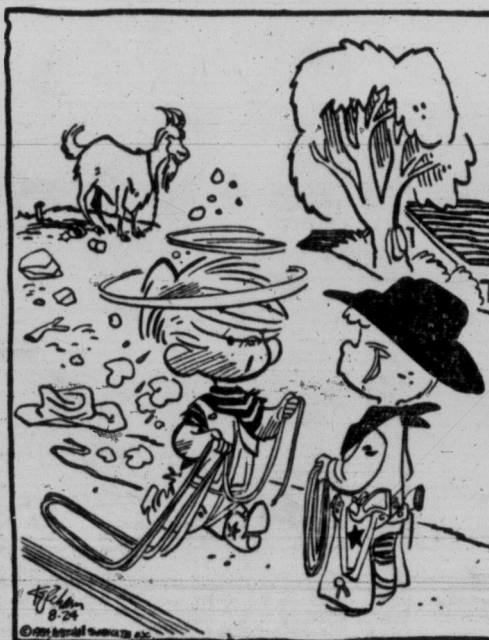

A heavy disheartening reverse and the loss of any of the off-shore islands would be very heavy and disheartening—would act on Formosa as a sort of political corrosive. Morale would dip to the vanishing point. Disaffection would probably appear. The whole Formosa position would become extremely unstable, if not openly vulnerable to penetration and subversion.

Pentagon opinion is, therefore, that the loss of the off-shore islands will probably mean the eventual loss of Formosa proper. But as the State Department is pointing out in the current policy row, guaranteeing these islands will involve great risks. In truth, we have come a long way since the talk about "unleashing Chiang Kai-shek."

There is enough natural viciousness loose in this world. To deliberately, to knowingly, conjure it up is the work of the evil-minded.

The very young are often cruel unwittingly. When their seniors sponsor cruelty for money the moral darkness over this world draws breath and expands just that much.

To those who are ill-willed words mean nothing, but to those in the Kinsmen Club who can be numbered amongst humane men, let them hear, and then speak out to stop this vicious thing before it is too late.

Cross-Country Viewpoints

ACCOUNT RENDERED

Regina Leader-Post

It is inevitable that the so-called universal pension of $40 a month to every Canadian reaching the age of 70 will cost the nation increasingly more. The plan has run at a deficit ever since it was launched. The government has loaned the pension fund the difference between the outgo in pension payments and the income from employee and employer contributions. Because of the inevitable increase in the total of pension payments at what is almost certain to be a faster rate than the increase in employee and employer contributions, it is highly probable that the annual deficits will disappear. Rather, the probability is that they will increase.

Newfoundland does have a big stake in Canada and should be more interested in what is happening at the nation's capital. Although only a little more than five years a member of the Canadian family, we are gradually becoming accustomed to dual government. We expect more and justly so—from the members we have sent to Ottawa. It is not always their fault that they cannot be heard because opportunity does not always present itself, but as they are now on holiday and may be called back for an emergency session they must have heard from constituents that they were conspicuous by their silence at the last session.

SHAPING UP?

Lethbridge Herald

At a time when Western nations have agreed, some 16 of them, to ease restrictions on trade with Russia and the countries behind the Iron Curtain, we are hearing from Americans in high places that the Third World War will break out within the next six months. That, of course, is an extreme view which is predicated on the assumption that Premier Chou En-lai of Red China will attack Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek on the island of Formosa, and that Uncle Sam will go to the defense of the island which with Japan and the Philippines, is part of the American frontier in the Pacific.

UNWANTED?

Ottawa Citizen

If the mood of Congress is that Canada and other countries should be discouraged from sending anything but raw materials to the U.S. there will be growing justification for the charge that outsiders are treated as hewers of wood and drawers of water for the great republic.

STATE CONTROLS

London Free Press

There is a good deal of confusion about the rights of the individual and current discussion does not clarify it much. Latest contributor to the debate is Malcolm Muggeridge, editor of Punch, who told the Couchiching conference that the outlook for the individual is dim indeed. In Communist countries he is being squeezed into the state pattern, in the United States he is being crushed by the passion for uniformity and conformity and even in Britain state controls of many activities are developing to the point where the individual faces obliteration.

BENEFITS FOR ALL

While the subject of grants is up before our city council, I should like to make a plea and appeal for Victoria's Symphony Society.

Victoria's attitude towards the cultural arts is almost unique in terms of insularity and indifference. Here, we have a large population boasting an intellectual status born of that maturity gained in travel abroad and exposure to the finest of cultural listening in music; here also, we have an admixture of nationalities whose common heritage is music in all of its delightful forms, yet an apathy exists that is incomprehensible!

It seems strange that none of these groups or individuals, come forth with a demand for recognition and support of their own symphony, or a concerted effort towards carrying the work of the symphony to enviable heights, in the consciousness of Canada as a whole. The time is now!

In the small prairie town of which I was highly privileged to be a citizen years ago, there was such support of musical effort as would dwarf any exhibition of this nature that has been evidenced in Victoria during the long years of my residence here.

In Victoria, when the musical festival is mooted, the impression gained is that it is small, insignificant stuff, that we must endure for as short a time as possible.

When the "Symphony" is spoken of, a conviction obtains that the indifference shown stems from the thought that it is a private (?) enterprise. I make this statement, that the Victoria Symphony is an important responsibility belonging to all of us; it is also (and this should be thought on) a continual safeguard against the delinquencies we read of, the concerts themselves, and those offered the students are milestones along the road of progress.

The Victoria Symphony is ours—its orchestra our fellow citizens and friends, its efforts are made for our pleasure, and our efforts can bring this pleasure within the reach of everyone.

COUNTER-DEFECTION

Toronto Telegram

Defections from the MVD have grown ever since the arrest and execution, shortly after Stalin's death, of Soviet spy chief Beria. If the hopes and plans of American and British intelligence authorities are realized, this small stream may reach a steady and increasingly important flow. The Russians are fearful of this and may well have engineered the recent defection of Otto John, West German security chief, to mitigate and offset their own serious losses.

OLD BUT GOOD

Halifax Chronicle-Herald

Don't start counting a person out until he's down—and stays down.

Three stories in the news show how foolish is the current trend of thinking in many businesses and industry, that new hands should not be taken on after 40 years of age and everybody should be retired at 65 because they are around the bend.

At Lac Du Bonnet, Manitoba, Joe Bright was spurred on by publicity over the four-minute millers at the British Empire Games to show he had plenty of energy left in him at 66 years of age. He won a collection of bets by running two miles in less than 15 minutes.

At Fort William, "Granny" McCollum, at 86, spurned the pleading of relatives and set out on her annual hunting and fishing trip in the Ontario wilderness—alone. Her daughter told reporters that "Granny" never took a drink in her life except a cold beer to freshen her up on the trail, "but she smokes like a chimney."

And at Salmon River, Yarmouth County, 80-year-old candy maker Lester Deveau, of Boston, has arrived to visit his sister after a hitch-hiking trip from his home.

There are thousands more like them, able to work or run circles around people many years their junior.

WHOLE AND HAPPY

The more responsive we all are to beauty of all kinds, the more civilized we are, the better citizens, the more complete, whole and rounded as human beings and, above all, the happier.

—Clough Williams-Ellis, well-known Welsh architect.

THE AGITATORS

By 1845 it was possible for Thomas Hood, in his remarkable last letter, to give a warning "against an evil, or the danger of it arising from a literary movement in which I have had some share, a one-sided humanity, opposite to the Catholic Shakespearean sympathy, which felt with king as well as with peasant, and duly estimated the mortal temptations of both stations. Certain classes at the poles of society are already too far asunder; it should be the duty of our writers to draw them nearer by kindly attraction, not to aggravate the existing repulsion, and place a wider moral gulf between rich and poor, with hate on the one side and fear on the other."

—The Times Literary Supplement.

Sentimental Journey

HOLIDAYS, I guess, are occasions for sentimental journeys. I made two during the last couple of weeks.

On one I visited a Vancouver haunt where Victorians used to gather 20 or 25 years ago to talk over McKechnie Cup rugby games. And there I fell in with two Australian weight lifters, who told me the best story I've heard about Canada's world champion Doug Hepburn.

Stott

According to the Australians' version, Doug was approached by a puny young smarty who asked him how it felt to be all brawn and no brain. Doug said he didn't know and countered with the question: "How does it feel to be neither?"

BACKWARDS, FLY BACKWARDS

On my second journey I wandered back into boyhood—which is getting to be an increasingly long trip no matter how sentimental you may be.

When we were kids we used to ride our bikes into the Highlands and fish the potholes for brook trout. Last week's jaunt wasn't into the Highlands. It covered rougher territory farther away from home. But it was made to a pothole and we fished again for brook trout.

Chris Behnson took us along a logging road, and started us off on the trail to the creek we were looking for. Chris knows the country like the back of his hand. You're trek beside him and try not to puff too hard. It isn't difficult. Chris sets a fairly easy pace so it won't be tough on the small youngsters with you. He just strides along and it never occurs to you to wonder at the wiry strength of the veteran cougar hunter. The years lie lightly on him. You have no impression of age even when he describes the country he found there, a grown man breaking trail 50 years ago.

He leaves you with a diagram scratched in the dust of a dirt road, outlining the trails—or where they used to be before the second growth sprang up.

There isn't a chance of encountering hostile animals. The noise of a town party, complete with kids, would frighten away anything but a wild elephant. You push on over the divide, crashing through small stuff and losing trail faster than a boy drops a quarter at a carnival.

It's fine country. Great trees still rise up above the ground cover of salal. Deep paths criss-cross it, leading down to water. You're away on them before you realize you've wandered from the former trail, which isn't much of a route now that young trees have come up to cover it.

Finally you work down to the bottom, through heavy alder and willow and the creek runs at your feet. In summer it isn't much of a creek—just a stream so clear it seems to be concentrated light flowing over the mossed brown rocks of its bed, with patches of gravel here and there.

There's a coolness there and a freshness. The maidenhair fern grows so delicately it sways on its wire-thin stalk with the lightest breath of air, dipping and nodding when the fine spray of a miniature cataract loads its fronds with moisture pearls. Yellow music spots the bank where the stream widens into marsh.

WHERE LILIES FLOAT

And if you press far enough through willows, climbing logs that have fallen across the rich black ooze of bottom land, you finally break out onto a picture pothole. It's small, not much bigger than a good-sized living room, caught at the foot of a sedgy meadow and held in form by rising, moss-covered rock. Yellow water lilies float in its shallows and between them trout rise to catch surface insects.

You can bait a line there—even a piece of string with a hook tied to it—and the hungry fish will fight for your offering. They come out firm and wriggling—more active per ounce than any lake trout. These are the native species, brassy-gold along the belly, speckled along the back and bright red-orange under the gills.

There is a quick excitement in catching them, and an abiding, healing serenity about the little pool, the small meadow and the woods surrounding it.

It's worth the long hike in. It's worth the labor of climbing and breaking through brush. It's worth the sweat and the trouble you encounter taking a shortcut home—the short-cut that leads straight up a mountain and leaves you lost in its folds, thrashing through thickets and looking for a trail that nature has reclaimed.

It takes you back to boyhood days when you did the same thing over easier territory in the Highlands. It makes you hope kids will continue to find that kind of pleasure in the woods—without getting lost. Somehow you feel they'll be good Canadians as long as they enjoy such experiences.

VOICE OF BROADWAY

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Speaking for Myself

(Miss Kilgallen appears each Sunday night on "What's My Line"—KTNV-TV, Tacoma, at 7:30 p.m.)

NEW YORK — WHOEVER INVENTED the magazine serial must have been a clever fellow, but I hate him. I am the type of reader usually referred to by the cliché experts as omnivorous, and I like to do my omnivoring on my own time, not by newsdealer's. Waiting 30 days between installments to find out why the heroine shrieked as she entered the room strikes me as unnatural, a crashing bore, and in the case of a truly interesting novel, too much for human flesh to endure, so from early childhood I have avoided the trap of the continued story, preferring to wait until it came out in one hunk.

Dorothy

Therefore if Marcia Davenport cares to add me to her list of minor triumphs for this year, she's got me. I succumbed to the first installment of "My Brother's Keeper" in Good Housekeeping (although it was clearly labeled the initial segment of a new novel) and I found her imaginative construction of a fiction situation on the real-life base of the Collyer brothers' incredible mansion so fascinating that I waited like a little lamb for part two to be delivered to my doorstep. I have just finished part three, and I am set to hang on for another month to find out what happens in the end.

When the story appears in book form and is reviewed by the literary critics, Miss Davenport undoubtedly will receive lengthier and more scholarly tributes, but none more sincere.

Inquest Jury Finds Cowichan Bay Death Aug. 20 'Accidental'

Driver of Panel Truck That Plunged Into Sea Reported Drunk Prior to Tragedy

DUNCAN—A coroner's jury here Monday evening returned a verdict of accidental death at the inquest on 19-year-old James Roger Greenway, who went over the government wharf, at Cowichan Bay, in his truck Friday afternoon.

It was admitted in evidence given by Oscar Eagle, under whom the deceased worked at the Cowichan Bay booming ground, that Greenway had had some beer previous to the accident. He also told the coroner's jury that "Jimmy did everything in spurts."

Asked by a member of the jury if he realized Greenway's age, the witness replied that he was not aware that Greenway was a minor although "he was not a drinking man," he said.

BCPC Plans New Unit for Nanaimo Area

NANAIMO—Nanaimo's third unit substation is to be installed at the end of Holy Avenue for improvement of electric service in the Townsite area.

The B.C. Power Commission has announced its plans for the addition of a third substation of 4,000 kva. capacity to the distribution network. The first two are located at Fraser and Bastion Streets and at View and Victoria Road. The new unit, like the first two, will transform the voltage from 23,000 volts to 4,000 volts for distribution.

The station will be equipped with modern voltage regulation that will maintain an even voltage and compensate for load fluctuations. The feeder circuits will be controlled by automatic reclosers that will restore service to a line knocked out by a momentary fault.

This new equipment will be tied into the circuits supplied by the first two, and will thus provide much greater flexibility of operation and reliability of service.

The installation will cost $120,000 and will provide capacity for future expansion in the rapidly building city. The new unit is four times the capacity of the present substation on Stewart Avenue, which will be removed.

ENGLISHMAN WINS TWO PHOTO SALON MEDALS

NANAIMO — An Englishman, I. Middleton, FRFS, of Glossop, Derbyshire, won the City of Nanaimo silver and bronze medals for best prints in Nanaimo's second international photo exhibition.

The second-bronze medal was won by Francisco Asmann of Rio De Janeiro, Brazil. Judges were Dr. J. S. Bricker, Vancouver; Percy Bentley, Vancouver, and Hale Vanscoy, Yakima, Wash.

Quality of the prints, said judges, was extremely high, though only 17 prints passed the first ballot of more than 770 entries.

Prints were entered from U.S.A., Pakistan, Mexico, Germany, France and many South American countries.

Judging in the exhibition took place Monday.

Rites Monday for Fishing Guide

CAMPBELL RIVER—A fishing guide in this district for 30 years, David C. McDonald, 77, died in his sleep Friday.

The funeral was held here Monday. Well known to anglers from all parts of the world, he is survived by a son, Leslie, and one grandchild.

that the accident occurred about 2:50 p.m. He said that Greenway was backing the truck up the wharf to the road "at a good clip," and went over the one-foot wooden guard rail into the sea. The truck landed on its roof and sank. He estimated the truck's speed at 25 miles an hour.

Alec Johnston said that the vehicle was going at a "good clip."

W. C. White told of the attempts that were made to try and save the youth. Witness said that as soon as he realized there had been an accident he rushed to a boat that was near the scene. A number of men launched the boat, but there were so many in it that it sank, so they swam to the truck which was in 12 feet of water. A tug also tried to reach the car, but grounded.

White also searched the car for Greenway, but could not find him. He said that when the vehicle was righted the body surfaced.

On being brought to shore artificial respiration and oxygen were administered. White said that the deceased was trapped under water for about 20 minutes.

Dr. R. C. Swan, Duncan, said that death was due to asphyxia by drowning.

'Fighting John' Loses Battle Against RCMP

Lacrosse Player Fined in Duncan

DUNCAN — "Fighting John" Lumley, well-known Nanaimo lacrosse player, lost his battle with the Duncan Royal Canadian Mounted Police here in court Monday when he appeared before Magistrate A. C. Sutton charged with not having legal B.C. license plates on his car.

Lumley pleaded "not guilty" to the offence. Police evidence stated that he was checked May 12 on York Road in Duncan and his car was bearing Ontario license plates. He also produced an Ontario driver's license. He was at that time questioned as to his occupation, and he said he was a lacrosse player for Nanaimo.

Lumley told Magistrate Sutton that he was not going to make his home on the Island and that he was returning shortly back east. He said that he thought that he would be granted a visitor's permit, though he did not get one.

When applying for a permit at the Nanaimo City Hall, he said that at that time he was working for Chemainus Towing Co. and was informed he would have to get B.C. license plates.

The magistrate said he was not satisfied with the accused's excuse, and said he could be fined up to $300, though he would give him the minimum of $25 and costs or 30 days.

Big Mid-Island Exhibition Will Feature Livestock Show; Aims at Higher Status

NANAIMO—Progress in Nanaimo Fall Fair plans gives every indication that the mid-island exhibition, to start Sept. 16, this year, eventually will be one of the largest on Vancouver Island.

"It is a class B fair now, but the way it is growing, I feel sure it will make class A in the next couple of years," said W. S. Oliver, manager of the exhibition association and of the civic arena, site of the fair.

Both horse and dog shows will be featured in the fair, and a new grand aggregate prize is in prospect with Simpsons-Sears manager Rex Covey "giving it serious thought" as a prospective donor.

POLLARD THREATENED WITH LEGAL ACTION

PHILADELPHIA (BUP)—Stunned and angry officials of the Philadelphia Eagles promised legal action today to thwart the jumping of Al Pollard to the British Columbia Lions in the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

McNally said the 26-year-old star at Loyola of Los Angeles and West Point had signed a contract with the Eagles and will face legal action if he fails to keep it.

Pollard, who has seen limited service in two exhibition games this year, disappeared Sunday from the Birds training camp in Hershey, Pa.

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor

Back from a week bathing in liquid sunshine to find that... Victoria Cougars have taken another step in their rebuilding plans with Pete Durham as the rock on whom opposing forwards are expected to founder.

(There wasn't a better defenseman in the Western Hockey League for the first half of last season than Durham. Here's a two-way hockey player who can be used up front if need be. The one problem is keeping him on the ice. Durham is notorious for taking his respite from duty in the penalty box. But he's still the kind of a guy that can help, and coach Billy Reay of the Cougars didn't hesitate in putting his stamp of approval on the deal, even though it meant parting with Sam Bettio.

... Vancouver Lions are off, but not yet running, in their grid chores.

(Defensively Lions appear tough and given any semblance of an attack to go with their line, they could occasion a few surprises.)

Walker

... The Ladder Derby is once again history.

(This is a venture in which prizes may be the key to its success, but nevertheless the Victoria Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association deserves a big red bouquet for helping to promote a sport which after all is one of the province's claims to fame. There are few better ways to relax. And now the scene switches to Cowichan Bay, Qualicum and Port Alberni (not forgetting Comox and Campbell River). And soon the onus will be on the bucktail and the victim's coho. It's been a pleasure for us to work with the anglers this season and, through their president, Andy Anderson, we wish to express our appreciation of their splendid co-operation in all endeavors in which we have been associated with them.)

... Victoria United is no more, and Victoria City is the soccer team of destiny.

(They've put Tommy Restell in charge of the local intercity soccer wars, and there couldn't be a better choice. For the past couple of seasons the phone at the Restell household has been relatively quiet; but no longer. And the only reason that Tom took the job is because he has the assurance of a long-range plan from the overlords of the game in the province. It's up the ladder for the kids from now on, and with the city's minor soccer program growing by leaps and bounds, there must be an outlet. It is the aim of the B.C. Soccer Commission and the Coast Soccer League to supply it. That's the answer Tommy wanted, and that's the answer he got before he accepted the post. Soccer should benefit. And let's not forget the tremendous contribution of George Eade, who kept United alive when it seemed the demise was nigh.

... Joe Haegert has been selected to attend the track clinic at the PNE at Toronto, as has Bill Gelling of the YMCA Track Club.

(There were only two Victorians on the recent British Empire Games squad at Vancouver, but if the youth movement of coach Bruce Hunter of the YMCA has the desired results, the Flying "X" will be well represented at Cardiff in 1958 and perhaps before that at the 1956 Olympics in Australia. Gelling and Haegert have been running in the shadow of Terry Tobacco these past months. Soon they will be casting their own shadows across the horizon. Speaking of Tobacco, up in Courtenay one can see signs in shop windows such as "Well done Terry" and "See Terry at the Bijou" (or whatever the name of the Courtenay theatre where the BEG films are being shown. There's no need to say "Terry Who?"

Noted Race Trainer Under Suspension

CHICAGO (UP)—Hasty House Farms trainer Harry Trotsek has been suspended in the investigation of a horse-doping incident at Washington Park.

The Illinois Racing Board, pending a hearing, suspended Trotsek Monday, overruling Washington Park stewards who originally set down only an assistant trainer, the groom and a veterinarian.

The Washington Park stewards acted after a test last week showed Hasty House's Mister Black had traces of the drug amphetamine in his system when he won the Grasslands Stakes Aug. 14.

Trotsek was not suspended by the stewards presumably because he had been at the Saratoga sales and missed the race. The Illinois board, however, ruled that the trainer, even though absent, is responsible for his horses.

The ruling, the board said, does not disqualify the Hasty House stable from further racing at Washington Park.

Trotsek will be given a hearing before the board Thursday.

Bays Square Series

Trim Nanaimo Jets; Third Game Thursday

Foul Bay 12, Nanaimo 10

Defending champion Foul Bay came from behind Monday night at Memorial Arena to nip Nanaimo Jets, 12-10, and even the best-of-five Vancouver Island senior B lacrosse championship series.

Losers to Jets in the series opener, and behind 5-0 after five minutes of action Monday night. Bays roared from behind with strong second and third periods.

Third game of the series will be played in Victoria Thursday. Five minutes after the game started it appeared like no contest, with Jets holding the upper hand.

Jets amazingly cashed in on their first five shots, three goals coming in the space of 21 seconds with Bays a man short.

However, the Bays came back strongly to lower the margin to 6-3 by the end of the first quarter and then sniped six goals in the second session to take a 9-7 lead going into the third quarter.

Terry Rodway and Norm Fulla scored last-minute goals for the up-Islanders.

GOALIES SHARP

Both goalies turned in solid performances, Jets' Al Shuker blocking 35 shots and Bays' Dave Unwin stopping 29 shots, 12 in the opening quarter.

Scorers follow:

Foul Bay—Davidson 2, Reid 2, Gower 2, Tom Halbert 1, George Wilson 1, Art Green 1, Jack Milburn 1, Jack Sim 1, Art Green 1, Total—12.

Ivan Temple was elected president of the Pacific Coast Amateur Hockey Association for the fifth consecutive term at a meeting at Nanaimo Sunday.

Mr. Temple was also appointed delegate to the annual meeting of the B.C. Amateur Hockey Association.

Elected vice-president was H. House of New Westminster. W. S. Hall of Victoria was elected secretary-treasurer.

Van Fletcherer Joins Tigers

SEATTLE (AP) — Vanolde (Van) Fletcher, a relief pitcher of the Pacific Coast League Seattle Rainiers has been traded to Detroit for two players and cash, general manager Dewey Soriano said Saturday.

Fletcher at present recovering from injuries suffered in an automobile accident—is to report to the Tigers as soon as possible after September 1.

Soriano said. He was bruised and lost several teeth in the accident but is expected to be back in action next week.

Arrows scored twice in the second inning when John Furmston doubled with left.

They yielded the lead until the fifth.

EVANS HOMERS

Gus Hilton of Fletcherers walked with one out and, after Bernie Clarkson skied to left for the second out, Verne Evans unloaded a tremendous home run to left centre.

That tied up the lead again in the last of the fifth with two runs.

Arrows had their biggest inning of the series in the eighth when they scored three times and took what looked like a comfortable 7-2 lead going into the top of the ninth.

But Fletcherers weren't finished. Archie Sluggert got the first two batters, but Flori Goegan kept the game alive with a line single to left centre.

Wilson followed with another single to left and that brought in Tim Walker. The count reached 3-2 and Walker singled to right, Furmston letting the ball bounce through his legs for a three-base error.

Base-Hit King of 1954

Rookie Dave Lowe, playing his first year in senior A ball this year, was honored as the top hitter in the Senior A Softball League Monday night at Athletic Park. ## FIFTH GAME TONIGHT

Arrows Prolong Softball Final

Arrows 7, Fletcherers 5 (Fletcherers Lead Best-of-Seven Series, 3-1)

It doesn't pay off in the win column to rile Arrow Furniture.

After losing the first three games of a best-of-seven Victoria Senior A Men's Softball League playoff final series to Cec Fletcherers, Arrows bounced back Monday night at Royal Athletic Park to take a wild 7-5 decision and force a fifth game in the series.

Fifth game is set for tonight at Royal Athletic Park starting at 7:15.

Temper flared and fans were treated to a near-riot in the fifth inning, both teams milling about home plate while Arrows' coach, Gar Taylor, and Fletcherers' catcher, Les Wilson, wrestled on the ground.

Both benches emptied for about five minutes. When order was restored, umpire Gordie Perkins banished Taylor from the game.

Arrows scored twice in the second inning when John Furmston doubled with left.

They yielded the lead until the fifth.

MILE GROUND OUT

Victoria Daily Times TUESDAY, AUGUST 24, 1954

Landy Packs It Up

MACOLIN, Switzerland (BUP) — Australia's John Landy, who has run the mile faster than any man in history, never will race at that distance again.

Landy, weighing 11 pounds more than he did on Aug. 17 when he was beaten by England's Roger Bannister in the "mile of the century" at Vancouver, Canada, made that announcement here where he is watching the British team train for the European championships which starts tomorrow.

"I've been running solidly since November and now I'm finished," said Landy. "I'm 24 years old and the little bit of fitness I have left I want to keep."

The Australian star ran the fastest mile in history on June 21 at Turku, Finland, when he was timed in 3:58.0. The performance, which lowered Bannister's record by 1.4 seconds, was officially accepted as the world record last Saturday by the International Amateur Athletic Federation. Also accepted was his mark of 3:41.8 for 1,500 meters set in the same race.

Landy said he "might experiment with longer distances, but I won't be taking it too seriously."

Landy, who is not eligible to compete in the European Games, said he will leave by plane for Australia as soon as the Games are over and will resume his interrupted studies in biological chemistry.

He said he does not intend to run in the 1956 Olympic Games at Melbourne, Australia. Nor will he run in an exhibition mile race at Berne, Switzerland, or in London, as had been suggested.

NEW YORK (AP) — His team five and a half lengths off the phenomenal .721 pace of Cleveland Indians, Casey Stengel today put himself on the spot as his New York Yankees opened a vital nine-game home stand.

"This is where the manager comes in," said Casey. "It's up to me to get them out of this streak."

The "streak" Casey referred to was the loss of three games in Boston last week-end.

Stengel sees the Yankees' plight as far from hopeless.

"Don't forget we still have five games left with Cleveland," he observed. "The Yankees will get on their feet again and make a comeback."

The American League contenders are scheduled to get together in Yankee Stadium in a three-game set Aug. 31-Sept. 2, and then wind up their season's series with a doubleheader in Cleveland Sept. 12.

Stengel said the team didn't lack hustle.

"When you lose two men like Slaughter and Woodling because they run into walls chasing flies, you know the effort is there."

Stengel's morale received a much-needed boost Monday when he learned that Gene Woodling probably would return to action in two weeks.

Three more invalids will be available tonight against Baltimore. Jim McDonald has recovered from a groin injury.

Hank Bauer from a pelvis ailment and Allie Reynolds' right knee is sound again.

Import Quota Raised by CRU

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—Dr. W. A. Campbell, president of the Canadian Rugby Union, announced Monday night that the CRU has decided to raise to nine the number of imports football clubs can use in any game.

The decision changes only the number of imports each team may play. The clubs still are only permitted to carry 10 Americans after the second game of each league's schedule.

OUTDOOR FRONT

With DENNY BOYD

Alex Davidson has a hat he wears when he goes fishing. It's not much of a hat, just the normal thing anglers wear. It has a crumpled brim, a bashed-in crown, has several spots that could be fish-blood and is perforated with holes from hooks.

But Art Brown thinks that hat is worth more than the crown of England. At least, Art wouldn't make a straight trade today.

Alex and Art were just two of the 504 anglers fishing in Sunday's ladder derby fish-off.

They fished all day, dragging planers and plugs from one end of Saanich Inlet to the other with no prize-winning success.

Derby deadline came and went and when the official time had passed, Alex and Art still figured they could catch something worth crowing about.

Art was towing a Squid plug and the boat was up in the Pat Bay area, not far from Ardmore Golf Club.

Alex had brought his line in to switch to a lighter weight and was rigging up when this hat fell off, right into the salt chuck.

They made a sharp turn to retrieve the hat so Art reeled in in order not to foul his line. The hat was fished out, rather dampish, and Art let his line out again. He had let about 45 feet out when he got a jarring strike. Half an hour later, he netted a 36½-pound spring. It would have been big enough to win second prize in the fish-off a couple of hours before, but Art wasn't griping about that; he was blessing that battered old fedora that made him bring his line in to the depth of that big silver-button spring.

Victoria publicity commissioner George Warren has to catch fish when he goes fishing. It's in his contract. Let George get skunked once and the Victoria tourist stock would fall off.

So George and Mrs. Warren were fishing at Campbell Lake over the week-end and they reeled in 48 trout between one-half and four pounds. It will be remembered that George did the same thing last year around this time. The tourist industry has been saved again.

Times sports editor Bill Walker is back toting his hodful of journalistic bricks in the sports department after a week at Qualicum.

He took his five-year-old daughter, Susan, out fishing and she boated four grise while he was tying on his lure. Reporting the incident to Mrs. Walker later, Susan said, "Daddy didn't catch any fish at all until he used the same kind of hook I was catching mine on."

However, Walker later took three springs to redeem himself.

At the beginning of every hunting season, a lot of nimrods take their rifles down from the shelf, spot a deer and either fill his hind-quarters full of lead or blast the antlers off because they haven't regulated their sights since the previous season.

The South Vancouver Island Rangers is holding a sighting-in shoot at their club grounds in Happy Valley Saturday and Sunday and all hunters are invited to take part. Entry fee is just a buck, targets are supplied and Rangers will assist all shooters in adjusting their sights. All 1954-55 Firearms License holders are invited to tune up their guns and get everything ready for the opening day of hunting season. Shooting starts at 9:30 and ends at 5:30 each day.

Also on Saturday, Rangers will hold their fourth annual Sportsmen's Rummage Sale on the Happy Valley grounds.

Guns, fishing tackle, camping gear, clothes, toys and books will be auctioned off and some great bargains can be picked up.

Blue Sail Second Choice For St. Leger Classic

LONDON (CP)—Blue Sail, Canadian-owned colt, has taken over the second favorite spot for the St. Leger stakes, last of the season's classic English races.

The dark brown three-year-old owned by Max Bell and Frank McMahon of Calgary.

DERBY WINNER
CHICAGO (AP)—Errand King, Joseph Gavegnano's swift bay colt, nonchalantly whipped High Gun and Hasty Road in the $115,250 American Derby at Washington Park Saturday to stake a strong claim for this year's three-year-old laurels.

Fourteen horses were named in the call-over for the St. Leger, to be run over one mile, six furlongs and 132 yards at Doncaster, Yorks, Saturday, Sept. 11. Blue Sail's price has shortened from 100 to 7 at the first call-over Aug. 16. The change is credited to the £10,000 colt's impressive 12-length victory in the Voltigeur stakes at York Wednesday.

When Race Cars Get Out of Control

Result of a recent big-car crash at Western Speedway was one badly-damaged car and a slightly injured driver. Driver Wilbur Clark received back and neck injuries when the No. 2 car he was driving rolled over three times after narrowly missing a car driven by American driver Don Olds.

The front end of the car was torn away from the body, but the driver received no serious injury. Car owner Jack Spalding is now attempting to rebuild the car. Here, members of the pit crew survey the scene, while an ambulance stands by.

AT SCULLING YET

Russian 'Amazons' In Form

AMSTERDAM (BUP)—Russia's growing list of athletic accomplishments in international meets swelled even higher today when the U.S.S.R. added an amazing performance by a group of steel-muscled "amazons" to the list.

The "amazons" swept the women's European rowing championship by taking all five titles Sunday with what one English official called "appalling ease."

The Russian women drew "lids" and "ahs" from incredulous on-lookers as they splashed to convincing victories in the coxed fours, the skiff, double and quadruple sculls and eights crowns in rapid succession.

The burly, muscle-packed Russian women came from behind to beat the Dutch in the coxed fours. With the Dutch in front at the half-way point, the "amazons" began to pound out a 40-to-the-minute tempo that earned them a half-length victory with the British another half length back in third place.

Rosa Choumakova breezed home in three minutes 48.1 to give Russia its second title in the skiff. Austria's Eva Siska wound up second and Agnes Reuter of Holland was third.

Then the Russian women, warmed up to the task before them, added the next three titles to their list in rapid succession, first winning the quadruple sculls title by three lengths. Then they won the double sculls, easing home in three minutes 33.9 seconds.

San Diego has narrowed Hollywood's lead in the Pacific Coast League race to one game and the two contenders are beginning home stands Tuesday night with only three weeks left to play.

San Diego will send Bill Wright to the mound at Lane Field against Oakland. The Oaks have nominated their classy portlander, Don Ferrarese.

Hollywood begins a 14-game home stand against fifth-place Seattle, but the Stars are expecting and undoubtedly will get lots of trouble. Seattle has won 10 of its last 11 games and will throw Tommy Byrne, the former Yankee, against the PCL champions. Byrne has a 19-8 mark and most certainly is a candidate for "most valuable player" award this year. When he isn't pitching he is playing first base, and the big southpaw is batting over .300.

Bombers Edge Eskis; Riders Topple Stamps

The highly-rated Winnipeg Blue Bombers and the pre-season underdogs, Saskatchewan Roughriders, remain undefeated after two games in the young Western Interprovincial Football Union season.

The Bombers had to fight hard in the last half to hold on to a 7-3 victory Monday over an injured band of Eskimos from Edmonton, who rallied behind hard-playing Rolfe Miles.

In Regina, Larry Isbell, who traded a Boston Red Sox baseball uniform for the green and white football colors of the Roughriders, directed an 11-7 upset over Calgary Stampeders.

Miles took over for winless Eskimos after regular quarterback Claude Arnold suffered a leg injury. He put on a one-man show of passing, kicking and running but the Bombers hung to their lead.

About 17,000 Winnipeg fans saw veteran quarterback Jack Jacobs score a major on a two-yard sneak in the first quarter, with Gud Korchak booting the extra point.

Korchak added a second-quarter single on a route to round out Winnipeg's scoring.

Import Bob Dean kicked a field goal for Edmonton's three points in the second quarter.

Eskimos, despite the talent-studded list of casualties, picked up 101 yards rushing, mostly on pass-or-run plays by Miles or Oklahoma import Glenn Lippmann. The Miles-Lippmann combination clicked on 16 of 33 pass attempts for 221 yards.

Jacobs, finding the Eskimo front wall a little close at times, completed only six of 19 passes. He was relieved in the last quarter by Joe Zaleski who preferred ground strategy.

BIG BOOT

Calgary, after dropping the season opener 17-5 to Winnipeg, found Isbell's kicking stung hard. The Baylor University grad's punts were good for five points and an average of 56.5 yards, two off the league record.

Both clubs scored converted touchdowns. Rupe Andrews, hulked from Stanford University, tucked the ball for 67 yards and five points for the Stamps. Glen Christian converted.

Isbell had taken his team to the Calgary one when Bobby Marlow went over for a major which was converted by Joe Aguirre.

Stampeders had a 7-2 lead at half time, their extra point coming when Bobby Flippin was caught in the first quarter on Keith Spaul's kick.

But Isbell started connecting in the last half and the Cowboys were held scoreless.

Ward Victorious In U.S. Amateur

DETROIT (CP)—Harvie Ward, Jr., of San Francisco, fresh from his victory Saturday in the Canadian amateur golf championship, defeated Hord Hardin of St. Louis 4 and 3 in the opening round of the United States Amateur Monday.

Ward, from almost two weeks of solid competitive golf, the 29-year-old Ward nevertheless had little trouble in disposing of his greying opponent.

Two Canadian entrants, Doug Silverburg of Red Deer, Alta., and Don Doe of Granby, Que., drew first-round byes.

Four former champions fell by the wayside in the 72 matches over the long and taxing Country Club of Detroit. They were Sam Urzetta of Rochester, N.Y., 1950 champion; Charlie Coe of Oklahoma City, 1949; Ted Bishop of Weston, Mass., 1946; and 64-year-old Charles Dick Evans of Chicago, 1916-20.

Billy Joe Patton of Morganton, N.C., amateur sensation of the Masters and U.S. Open tournaments, defeated 18-year-old Rex Baxter of Amarillo, Tex., on the 19th hole when the latter blew a 40-inch putt for a bogey five.

SAXTON HAPPY NOW; 'KID' SIGNS FOR FIGHT

PLEASANTVILLE, N.J. (AP)—The way Johnny Saxton looks at it, the worst was over when welterweight champion Kid Gavilan finally signed for their Sept. 1 title fight in Philadelphia.

The thought of facing the clever Cuban holds no terror for the 24-year-old Brooklyn challenger. "I'll beat him," he said confidently. "It was the waiting for Gavilan to come over to the U.S. to sign that had me in a sweat. I didn't know whether he was going to come over from Cuba."

Ward Victorious In U.S. Amateur

DETROIT (CP)—Harvie Ward, Jr., of San Francisco, fresh from his victory Saturday in the Canadian amateur golf championship, defeated Hord Hardin of St. Louis 4 and 3 in the opening round of the United States Amateur Monday.

Ward, from almost two weeks of solid competitive golf, the 29-year-old Ward nevertheless had little trouble in disposing of his greying opponent.

Two Canadian entrants, Doug Silverburg of Red Deer, Alta., and Don Doe of Granby, Que., drew first-round byes.

Four former champions fell by the wayside in the 72 matches over the long and taxing Country Club of Detroit. They were Sam Urzetta of Rochester, N.Y., 1950 champion; Charlie Coe of Oklahoma City, 1949; Ted Bishop of Weston, Mass., 1946; and 64-year-old Charles Dick Evans of Chicago, 1916-20.

Juniors Present Fresh, Delightful Show

By TONY DICKASON
With high and devoted seriousness, studied, carefully-controlled tones, junior players of Victoria's first Summer School of the Theatre, Monday night, showed without a doubt that virtue triumphs over wickedness, and that in the long run the fairy godmother will come through.

In the Langham Court Theatre, before an audience which should have been perhaps larger (there were about 80 present), youngsters turned out a show which was fresh, alive, and sufficiently tilted to be altogether delightful for adults with a sense of humor, and sufficiently good to make happy the parents who were present.

The youngsters were good, but anyone over the chewing gum age couldn't help but laugh at would-be-deep sinister exclamations such as "Ha, ha," pronounced by a 10-year-old prince whose voice was still eight tones above Crosby's. A play presented by older students, "The Terrible Meek," was in a class by itself. Anthony Churchill had a fair accent as is generally accepted for the British soldier, while Larry Tickner as the captain of emotive philosophy and Vera Stewart as a bereaved mother sobbed and emoted.

Most appealing of all was "The Puppet Party," which saw various little vignettes presented with laughter and interested nervousness by the young players.

More than 40 students participated in four plays. Directors were Mrs. Gwen Downes, Miss May Craycroft and John H. Winter, while costumes were by Shelagh Young and Jean Roberts, supplied by Theatrical Costume Studio. Junior students again tonight will present three plays, with older students contributing one.

ESQUIMALT COUNCIL BRIEFS

Vending Machines Given Green Light

Vending machines were given the go-ahead by Esquimalt council Monday night but only those types which provide either merchandise or music will be allowed.

Pinball machines and other games will still be forbidden. The decision to keep out games followed a recommendation by Police Chief G. Stancombe.

Instructions were given municipal clerk J. W. Allen that the bylaw shall permit such items as cigarettes, gum, chocolate bars, nuts, frozen fruits, music and stamps to be vended by machine.

Vandals who have been cutting ropes on swings in Esquimalt's Lyall Street playground will blunt their knives if they repeat their actions when the swings are repaired. Council decided to repair the swings but this time the seats will be suspended from chains.

Council will ask the Greater Victoria Civil Defense Commission to hold its meetings in the evening rather than the afternoon. Clr. James Bryant pointed out that a recent meeting lasted three hours. He had to absent himself from his dockyard job, and felt it was an unnecessary expense.

Residents of Colville Road wartime housing will be given opportunity to help themselves to cement sidewalks. A meeting of interested residents of that area will be called for 8 p.m. Wednesday, September 8 at the Colville Road Boy Scout Hall. Council will explain the necessary steps toward sidewalk installation by local improvement plan.

A complaint that Esquimalt firemen don't know when they will get annual holidays and can't find out from the chief, was referred to council. Police and Fire Chief G. Stancombe was not available to refute the charge. He is on annual holidays.

Seven municipally-owned lots on Craigflower Road were released for sale by council following a report that work has begun on a sewer extension.

(A) "FRONT PAGE STORY" (Dominion): This column for obvious reasons might be biased in its rating on this story of a day in the life of Grant, news editor of The London Daily World. However, we have tried to be dispassionate about it and have given it the "don't miss" qualification in the belief that anyone interested in the whirligig of big dailydom will enjoy it enormously.

For one thing this British production attempts to give the audience an insight not into one story, which is more usually the case, but into several stories happening simultaneously.

Grant, played ably by Jack ("The Cruel Sea") Hawkins, his newspaper life complicated by marital difficulties has The Daily World's reporters on two big beats. One he has veteran reporter Walter Fitzgerald follow Dr. Brumm, a distinguished atomic scientist; two, Michael Goodliffe cover the trial of mercy-killer Eva Bartok. There is also the tragic story of the

DIVERS TO SEEK $30 MILLION IN BULLION OFF GOLDEN GATE

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Marine divers will search the ocean floor three miles outside the Golden Gate next fall for $30,000,000 in gold believed to be aboard a ship which sank 66 years ago.

The Golden Gate is the entrance to San Francisco Bay. A. P. Settle, of the Settle Salvage Co., will direct the operation. Settle, of Oakland, was a diver for another salvage company in a 1948 attempt to find the ship. That company abandoned the search.

Pole, Aided by Victorians, Arrives in Canada to Stay

A young Polish engineer, who left his homeland to escape Communist rule, and who tried unsuccessfully last year to enter Canada, arrived in Montreal Sunday, this time with the blessing of Canadian immigration officials.

Richard Nowalinski, who jumped ship in Vancouver in June, 1953, intending to make a new life for himself in Canada, was caught and held by Canadian immigration authorities for six months. Finally he was put aboard a ship bound for South Africa.

At the time, Maj. Gen. G. R. Pearkes, V.C., and a local citizen, Mrs. W. Rogers, 42 South Turner Street, pressed authorities to review the case and grant Nowalinski permission to stay. Only recently were immigration channels cleared.

One hour after arrival in Montreal, Nowalinski was on the phone to Victoria to tell Mrs. Rogers he was back. "He was so excited," Mrs. Rogers related. "He was almost crying."

The young immigrant said he would try to reach Victoria by the end of this week and would seek employment here.

'VICTORIA IS DEADLY'

Music Critic Tosses Bombshell—Then Leaves on Holiday

By AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON

Sorry to appear to harp on one subject but some further thoughts on the ideas expressed in my column in Saturday's Times have cropped up. So before I go off on a holiday to get some of the robbers blown out of my brain, I'd like to disentangle these thoughts and leave them with you.

I hope, incidentally, that they may catch the eye and fire the imagination of some organizational genius — if such exists around these parts!

EVERYTHING IN A DAY

This has to do, you remember, with the problem of tourists who don't stick around long enough to pour out a generous helping of U.S. dollars because everything there is to do in Victoria can be done in approximately one day.

I know those are hard words, but let's face it. We, the citizens, love this beautiful little old town and hate to hear it disparaged. But at least two-thirds of our affection is based in the fact that our homes, family and friends are here; our work and our avocations, leaving the other third only for climate and scenic joys.

This was brought home to me recently by a young man who had been spending several months visiting relatives in Victoria. While a temporary member of the household he enjoyed the entertainments, private and public, partaken of by the family, shared their hobbies and friends. He marveled that anyone should find the city dull.

Came the time, however, when a job took him out of the home and he had only a casual visitor to Victoria, like any traveler. Then he saw the city from a different point of view.

'ABSOLUTELY NOTHING'

"It's deadly," he told me. "I got off the boat in a real holiday spirit, like being let out of school. I looked up a friend and had dinner with him, but by the time we were through and he had to go back to work, I realized there was absolutely nothing to do but return to my hotel and go to bed."

And that with money burning a hole in his pocket, absolutely begging to be spent!

What can a tourist find to do in a day, supposing he has no friends or relatives in the city? Browse in the china and antique shops and import emporiums for a few hours—if he has been lucky enough to choose a day other than Wednesday! Take a drive around and see the gardens, the lovely homes, the sea views, maybe watch the Showboat entertainment if he cares for that sort of thing and wind up with a trip out to Butchart Gardens.

UP-ISLAND IS DIFFERENT

After that, what? Mind you, we're not talking about the kind of tourist who is spending a couple of weeks at a resort hotel, with golf and fishing as his main projects.

Those are not the problem tourists. They have already been wooed and won. In fact, they can hardly be classed as tourists. It is that restless migratory hoard of summer vacationers who cross the international line, seeking to cram their time with a variety of pleasures, experiences and "kicks," that we so earnestly desire to persuade to stay awhile.

But so far, admittedly, we haven't found the recipe. And I shall be frank. The only thing in the vicinity that has what it takes—that is, in other words, magnificently unique—is Butchart Gardens by day or night.

With all due respect to the hard work, good intentions, and talent that has gone into the Inner Harbor Showboat, it is hardly likely to set the tourist world afire.

It will take an enterprise on a far bigger and more ambitious scale to bring about the desired effect. It will take the laying out of some real money to snare more of the real money the tourist trade group and retail merchants eye so earnestly as each season rolls around.

Just as an example and a concrete suggestion (still with an envious thought for Stratford's success), I recommend Brooks Atkinson's article in the New York Times magazine for Aug. 8.

He is reporting on the tremendous success of Philadelphia's tent theatre, "Playhouse in the Park." This is a financially successful venture, professionally operated and bringing name stars to play leads in such enjoyable summer fare as "Boy Meets Girl," "Sabrina Fair," "The Little Hut," "Happy Birthday."

IT COULD HAPPEN HERE

The plays are produced in arena style, the tent theatre

AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON

has a capacity of 1,072 seats, none of which is more than 12 rows from the stage. Prices are at a popular level and capacity audiences are the general rule. It is rapidly paying back its initial outlay and by the end of the season, Mr. Atkinson tells us, it will be showing an "unencumbered profit."

"The parti-colored tent with its banks of chairs in different colors has a holiday look that is a tonic," he writes. "The theatre looks like a gay haven for midsummer nights' entertainment."

Think it over. It could happen here!

Bootlegger Jailed for 6 Months

Bookmaker Fined $300 or 3 Months

First convictions in the current city police crackdown on gambling and bootlegging resulted today in one local man being sentenced to six months hard labor, another to a $300 fine.

Sentenced were Lee Fook, 1944 Oak Bay Avenue, who drew the jail term because he sold a bottle of rum to a policeman in plain clothes, and Arthur Richard Kay, who has one day to pay $300 for recording bets. If he doesn't pay the fine, he'll serve three months in jail.

Fook pleaded guilty last Friday but Magistrate A. L. Thomas reserved sentence. The no-option jail term is for his second conviction.

City prosecutor Alan Bigelow told the court Fook had been similarly convicted in 1952 while using another name.

LIQUOR CACHE FOUND

"An officer testified that he had bought a 12-ounce bottle of rum from the accused for $3.50 early on a Sunday. In a subsequent raid, 55 bottles of rum, gin and rye were seized. The liquor had been stored at the CAC Gardens, Flisgard Street.

In the case of Kay, police said they had found horse racing form charts and betting records in the back of his store at 715 Pandora. He pleaded guilty to unlawfully recording bets and the $300 fine was immediately imposed.

OH, NO! NOT AGAIN!

Webster's near-irrefutable dictionary, current edition, has blemished its escutcheon with the increasingly common sin of calling Vancouver the capital of B.C.

Similar errors have happened on at least seven occasions in various publications the past two months, both in Canada and overseas.

Publicity commissioner George Warren has by now run out of epithets. He has just written the editors of Webster's in a restrained key. "May we hear from you, please?"

1-Way Streets

Go; Merchants Still Critical

Change Set for Wednesday at 3

Victoria's one-way street system goes out the window at 3 p.m. Wednesday, but merchants on Fort Street, centre of the summer's one-way street controversy, are still not entirely satisfied.

Miss Emily Elworthy, proprietor of Peggy Page Candies, 615 Fort was pleased with the idea of two-way traffic in front of her door again but considerably disturbed because she will not get back the bus stop she had before the one-way plan took effect Jan. 20.

The bus stop was good for business. People waiting for buses could be lured into the store by the smell of fresh candy.

"Right now you can smell Scotch kisses right up to the Yarrow block," Miss Elworthy said this morning with obvious pride.

One block up, and across the way, J. A. Burchett, proprietor of Williamson's Photo & Art Supply, 640 Fort, was somewhat concerned with the question of what is going to happen to traffic once the street reverts to its former status.

"It seems to me we're just going backward," he said. "There used to be a lot of congestion around here at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. I'm afraid we're going to have tie-ups again."

AROMA WASTED

Without people standing around, waiting for buses, however, she felt the aroma was being wasted.

"I wouldn't mind if they brought all the buses in town by here," she said.

One block up, and across the way, J. A. Burchett, proprietor of Williamson's Photo & Art Supply, 640 Fort, was somewhat concerned with the question of what is going to happen to traffic once the street reverts to its former status.

"It seems to me we're just going backward," he said. "There used to be a lot of congestion around here at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. I'm afraid we're going to have tie-ups again."

Mr. Burchett and one of his neighbors, C. H. Jervis-Read, wrote to City Council in mid-summer to report they thought the one-way street plan was working all right. On this point, they disagreed with most of the Fort Street business people.

Mr. Jervis-Read, managing director of Gordon Ellis Ltd., said today, however, that while he was quite satisfied with the one-way street he was "not at all unhappy" about the change, either.

Roger Monteith, proprietor of the sporting goods shop at 618 Fort Street, was truly happy about the change. His contention is that it should never have been a one-way street in the first place.

Wednesday's changeover affects Fort, View, Broughton and Broad.

The city has picked Wednesday afternoon for making the switch because traffic is lightest that day.

Elimination of one-way streets will cut out 45 parking places and will mean restricted parking on some streets.

Parking on the south side of Fort, from Government to Douglas, will be prohibited from 4 to 6 each afternoon.

Motorists proceeding west on Fort or View no longer will be allowed to left-turn on to Douglas.

B.C. Electric has decided against changing its bus routes. "It would just cause confusion if we did," a company spokesman said.

Two-War Veteran Dies in 54th Year

A veteran of the 1914-1918 and 1939-1945 wars, Alfred Kimberley Hine, 210 Suzanne Place, a resident of Victoria and district the past 48 years, died here Monday in his 54th year.

Born in England "Kim" Hine was a member of the Pro Patria Branch, Canadian Legion.

He is survived by his wife Ellen and a son Allan at home; four daughters, two in Vancouver, one in Victoria and one in West Point, B.C.; a son in Halifax; three brothers all in California; four sisters, Mrs. J. Slade Stevens and Mrs. J. Gow of Victoria and two in California. Also an uncle, Alfred Bennett of this city.

Car Crashes Injure Three

A collision at the fountain roundabout Monday night sent Mrs. Maud Davis, 50, Cadillac Avenue, to St. Joseph's Hospital, where she is in good condition.

Mrs. Davis was passenger in a car driven by Katherine E. Roine, 2323 Wark, which was proceeding around the circle when it was in collision with a car driven north on Douglas by Ethel Scott Glenn, 677 Island Highway.

Another passenger in the Roine car, Mrs. S. Thomas, 2323 Wark, was treated for a sore jaw at hospital and released.

Mrs. Davis suffered shock, forehead cuts and a badly bruised leg. Police said the smash occurred at 7:30 p.m.

The other traffic injury was sustained by three-year-old Mark Thacker, 2574 Fort. He was treated at Jubilee for forehead abrasions after being struck by a car, said to be driven by Arthur Songhurst.

Canterbury Dedicates Comox RCAF Chapel

Busy Program Planned for Archbishop During Week-Long Visit to Vancouver Island

Most Rev. and Rt. Hon. Geoffrey Francis Fisher, Archbishop of Canterbury, will make a special trip to the RCAF station at Comox during his week-long visit to Vancouver Island next month.

His Grace will visit the air station Friday, Sept. 10, to dedicate a new chapel and windows presented to the air force by Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Clarence Wallace in memory of their eldest son, Blake, an RCAF fighter pilot, killed in the Second World War.

The Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Wallace will attend the dedication. The party will travel from Government House to Comox by car, but may return by plane.

CRUISER ASSIGNED

The Archbishop of Canterbury is scheduled to arrive in Vancouver on the morning of Tuesday, Sept. 7. He will be met by Most Rev. Harold E. Sexton, Archbishop of British Columbia, and Rt. Rev. Godfrey P. Gower, Bishop of New Westminster. He will immediately board the cruiser Ontario, which will land him at Esquimalt at 2:30 in the afternoon.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett, the mayor of Victoria and Reeve A. C. Wurtz of Esquimalt will be on hand to welcome him.

The following day, Wednesday, His Grace will undertake his first engagement here when he receives former pupils of Marlborough College and Repton School from 4 to 6 at a reception to be held at the Empress Hotel. Saturday, the Archbishop and Mrs. Fisher will be honored at a Government House garden party.

Sunday will be his busiest day. He will celebrate Holy Communion at 8 in Christ Church Cathedral and will preach at the Cathedral's 11 o'clock service. Winnipeg-Ingman, who was Bishop of London, and 29 years president of the B.C. and Yukon Church Aid Society. It was he who laid the foundation stone for the Victoria cathedral in 1926.

Sunday evening, the Archbishop will be the central figure at a massed service to be conducted in the Memorial Arena. He will lead a procession to the arena from the Hudson's Bay store, which will be used as a vestry for the occasion. He will be wearing the robes, mitre and cope he wore at the Coronation of Queen Elizabeth.

On Monday, His Grace will leave for Nanaimo and from there will return to Vancouver.

TEN GALLONS OF GOOD WILL

Plainsmen in Fancy Chapeaus On Way to Repay 'Daffy' Visit

Calgary's affable Mayor Don Mackay, Canada's foremost popularizer of the 10-gallon hat, will be doffing it in Victoria Thursday when he arrives with 80 other members of the rodeo city's Chamber of Commerce for a one-day "goodwill" visit with chamber counterparts here.

The party is repaying a daffodil-dropping visit by Victoria members last spring when Cowtown citizens treated Victorians royally. Similar gags and a few high links between the "rival" chambers will likely be forthcoming here.

The Calgary group, which includes many distinguished Alberta businessmen, will arrive aboard the CPR's Princess Joan at 8 a.m. and will be met by a welcoming party of Victoria chamber members and the mayor.

At 9:30 a.m. they start a tour of Victoria and Butchart gardens before returning to the Empress Hotel for a joint Chamber of Commerce-Rotary Club luncheon. Speaker will be N. E. Tanner, president, Trans-Canada Pipelines Ltd., and former Alberta MLA.

Following lunch the Calgary

ians will split into parties for fishing, golfing or a tour of HMC Dockyard conducted by the navy.

A reception will be held in the evening at the Empress followed by a dinner dance. The visitors will board the midnight steamer for Vancouver.

The visitors will be headed by J. Howard Kelly, QC, chamber president. Other members of the party will include Clark Coldwell, president of the Alberta Associated Chambers of Commerce; W. A. Crawford, president of Calgary exhibition; John Southam, publisher of the Calgary Herald; George McMahon, president, Pacific Petroleum Ltd.; R. J. Dimming, president, Burns Packers; R. C. Brown, HBC oil and gas company general manager, and at least one woman, Olga Valda, Calgary ballet teacher.

The Calgary delegation boarded the train today for their first major tour in 25 years which will take them to Revelstoke, Sicamous and Kamloops as well as here and Vancouver. They are making rail history as the first group to ride the CPR's new scenic dome cars to the coast.

Car Crashes Injure Three

A collision at the fountain roundabout Monday night sent Mrs. Maud Davis, 50, Cadillac Avenue, to St. Joseph's Hospital, where she is in good condition.

Mrs. Davis was passenger in a car driven by Katherine E. Roine, 2323 Wark, which was proceeding around the circle when it was in collision with a car driven north on Douglas by Ethel Scott Glenn, 677 Island Highway.

Another passenger in the Roine car, Mrs. S. Thomas, 2323 Wark, was treated for a sore jaw at hospital and released.

Mrs. Davis suffered shock, forehead cuts and a badly bruised leg. Police said the smash occurred at 7:30 p.m.

The other traffic injury was sustained by three-year-old Mark Thacker, 2574 Fort. He was treated at Jubilee for forehead abrasions after being struck by a car, said to be driven by Arthur Songhurst.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

This is the story of why there is no story in the paper today about Indian dances.

A Canadian Press dispatch came into the office this morning, dealing with the August sun dances staged by the plains Indians in the vicinity of Calgary.

So the city editor passed it on to our ethnic expert, with instructions to find out if the local Indians planned anything similar.

So our ethnic expert called his local Indian contact, and asked him if there would be any sun dancing around here.

"Sun?" echoed the local Indian contact. "What's that?"

Speaking of weather (and who isn't?), Seattle meteorologists have been kind enough to explain what happened to summer.

I quote: "The 'high' that normally sits along the Pacific Coast is about 1,000 miles off shore instead."

"This high would have to be about 500 miles closer to shore to affect coastal regions. As long as it stays so far out, cool damp air slips around from the Gulf of Alaska."

"In brief, summer is 1,000 miles at sea."

I don't mind summer spending the summer holidays on an ocean voyage.

But at least it might stop over on the Island for a day or so either going or coming.

You will please pardon me if I sound a little depressed today.

It is not only gloomy weather getting me down. I have also received proof positive that the days of my youth are but a dusty memory.

This morning I was trimming my moustache and suddenly realized the only reason I was doing so was because it tickled.

Me, that is.

Another reason for gloominess is the way I am constantly exposed to pictures of dead fish.

If there is one thing I can get along without, it is a picture of a dead fish.

Pictures of fish swimming or fish jumping, I can take or leave alone.

Pictures, preferably in color, of fish sizzling to a golden brown in the skillet, give me considerable pleasure.

But please protect me from pictures of fish in that indecent stage between water and frying pan.

This morning's paper contained pictures of no less than 41 dead fish.

If people must go around catching more fish than they can eat, let them at least keep the dead fish out of camera range.

A brand new puppy has arrived at the home of Miss Dinah Kerr.

Before his arrival, elaborate plans were laid for his early training and discipline.

Miss Kerr now happily reports that the puppy has already found out who's boss in the house.

He is.

A city fire department in-halator squad failed to revive a 62-year-old Chinese laborer at R.C. Forest Products Gorge Road plant early today.

Dead from an apparent heart attack is Tom Kit, 648 Herald Street.

The body was taken to Sands Mortuary Ltd.

Assistant Commissioner Rivett-Carnac, RCMP, Victoria, will be among speakers at the International Northwest Aviation Council convention in Vancouver, September 19-21.

Several TCA and other airline officials from here are also expected to attend.

A naval cadet who was rushing his nurse friend back to her quarters before a 1 a.m. deadline didn't win the sympathy of a policeman who pinched him for speeding on Hillside, Andre J. Cornau, Cadet Training Establishment, HMC Dockyard, was fined $25 in police court today.

He was given a suspended sentence on a second charge of failing to produce his license. He convinced the court that he had lost his wallet.

Wednesday Funeral For City Pioneer

Funeral services will be held Wednesday, at 2 p.m., from McCall Bros' chapel for James Cruickshank, 80, a resident of Victoria for 43 years, who died at his home, 1127 Johnson Street, Sunday.

Born in Boddem, Aberdeenshire, Scotland, he served with the 47th Battalion in the First World War and was a member of the Britannia Branch, Canadian Legion, and Camosun Lodge No. 60, A.F. and A.M.

He is survived by his wife, Emily, at home; two daughters, Mrs. J. E. Field and Elizabeth Ethel, both of Victoria; four grandchildren, four great-grandchildren and a brother, Alex, in Australia.

Rev. Douglas Kendall will officiate at the funeral and interment will be in Royal Oak Burial Park.

Go; Merchants Still Critical

Change Set for Wednesday at 3

Victoria's one-way street system goes out the window at 3 p.m. Wednesday, but merchants on Fort Street, centre of the summer's one-way street controversy, are still not entirely satisfied.

Miss Emily Elworthy, proprietor of Peggy Page Candies, 615 Fort was pleased with the idea of two-way traffic in front of her door again but considerably disturbed because she will not get back the bus stop she had before the one-way plan took effect Jan. 20.

The bus stop was good for business. People waiting for buses could be lured into the store by the smell of fresh candy.

"Right now you can smell Scotch kisses right up to the Yarrow block," Miss Elworthy said this morning with obvious pride.

One block up, and across the way, J. A. Burchett, proprietor of Williamson's Photo & Art Supply, 640 Fort, was somewhat concerned with the question of what is going to happen to traffic once the street reverts to its former status.

"It seems to me we're just going backward," he said. "There used to be a lot of congestion around here at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. I'm afraid we're going to have tie-ups again."

Mr. Burchett and one of his neighbors, C. H. Jervis-Read, wrote to City Council in mid-summer to report they thought the one-way street plan was working all right. On this point, they disagreed with most of the Fort Street business people.

Mr. Jervis-Read, managing director of Gordon Ellis Ltd., said today, however, that while he was quite satisfied with the one-way street he was "not at all unhappy" about the change, either.

Roger Monteith, proprietor of the sporting goods shop at 618 Fort Street, was truly happy about the change. His contention is that it should never have been a one-way street in the first place.

Wednesday's changeover affects Fort, View, Broughton and Broad.

The city has picked Wednesday afternoon for making the switch because traffic is lightest that day.

Elimination of one-way streets will cut out 45 parking places and will mean restricted parking on some streets.

Parking on the south side of Fort, from Government to Douglas, will be prohibited from 4 to 6 each afternoon.

Motorists proceeding west on Fort or View no longer will be allowed to left-turn on to Douglas.

B.C. Electric has decided against changing its bus routes. "It would just cause confusion if we did," a company spokesman said.

Two-War Veteran Dies in 54th Year

A veteran of the 1914-1918 and 1939-1945 wars, Alfred Kimberley Hine, 210 Suzanne Place, a resident of Victoria and district the past 48 years, died here Monday in his 54th year.

Born in England "Kim" Hine was a member of the Pro Patria Branch, Canadian Legion.

He is survived by his wife Ellen and a son Allan at home; four daughters, two in Vancouver, one in Victoria and one in West Point, B.C.; a son in Halifax; three brothers all in California; four sisters, Mrs. J. Slade Stevens and Mrs. J. Gow of Victoria and two in California. Also an uncle, Alfred Bennett of this city.

ASK The TIMES

Q.—Will you please tell me what year and date Edward, Prince of Wales, now the Duke of Windsor, visited Victoria?

A.—He was a visitor on Vancouver Island three times. First, less than a year after the armistice which ended the First Great War, he arrived here on the evening of Sept. 23, 1919, on an official visit. He was given a great reception in the streets as he drove next morning to the Legislative Buildings. Addresses were presented in the legislative chamber, and on the lawn he presented medals to war heroes. In Oct., 1924, he paid an informal visit, arriving in Victoria Oct. 5 and spending two days. On Aug. 19, 1927, he again came on an informal visit, accompanied this time by his younger brother, Prince George, later Duke of Kent. The funeral of the late Premier John Oliver was held Aug. 20. It was attended by provincial and municipal officials and many prominent citizens. The Prince sent a representative, that being the first time such an honor had been paid to the memory of a leading citizen in British Columbia.

AS WE LIVE

Wet Blanket Spoils Everybody's Fun

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD

There are some people who find it hard to adjust to what others do. If they are not given first say, they are likely to be disagreeable. A girl writes:

(Q) "Our problem is my Dad. He is what he likes to call a 'homebody.' Whenever we — my mother, brother, or I want to go away for a vacation or even a day trip, Dad is always grumpy. He acts like a martyr if we go without him and is disagreeable if we insist that he go along. I am 18 and my brother is 16. We want to have some fun while we are young, and we feel that Mom should get away, too, as she works hard at home. How can we convince Dad that he could have some fun if he would only change his attitude?"

Hurlock (A) I think you will have a hard job on your hands if you try to convince your father that vacations can be fun. He is determined to be a "wet blanket" and he is not likely to admit that he has a good time.

Don't try to force him to go away. Ask him if he wants to go and accept whatever answer he gives you. If he reluctantly agrees to go, then let him have the major say about where you will go and what you will do.

If the plans are of his own choosing he is less likely to complain than when he feels he is being forced into something against his will. Also, it will give him a feeling of importance to think he has made the plans for the family.

Should he refuse to go, there is no reason for the rest of the family to stay at home or to feel guilty about going. Have a good time and forget your father's objections.

Couple Wed at Oaklands To Make Home in Calgary

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Allen Petersen, whose marriage took place Saturday evening, will live at Calgary, Alta., following their honeymoon Up-Island.

Ruth Ellen Mills, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. Roy Mills, Glen Lake, and the son of Mr. O. C. Petersen, Glen Lake, and the late Mrs. Petersen, were united in a ceremony performed Saturday evening by H. L. Hopkins in Oaklands Gospel Hall, which was decorated with baskets of pastel gladioli and ivy trailers for the occasion.

Sid Biggs played organ music and as the register was being signed, W. Sims sang "O Perfect Love." The bride's father gave her in marriage.

Her gown was fashioned of corded taffeta with overskirt of filmy nylon net in ballerina length, and a lace jacket. A halo headress trimmed with pearls held her fingertip veil of net. Her only jewelry was a string of pearls, the gift of her groom. Red roses and white carnations formed her bouquet.

Miss Elinor Thompson was bridesmaid, wearing a gown of pink net, ballerina length. She wore a matching pink halo headress and carried a bouquet.

The marriage took place in All Saints' Church, Shawnigan Lake, with Canon R. K. Sampson hearing the vows of Miss Joan Winnifred Webb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Webb, Shawnigan Lake, and the son of Mrs. M. F. Batchelor and the late W. C. Batchelor, also of Shawnigan Lake.

Yellow gladioli, white gypsophylla, blue hydrangeas and sweet peas formed a setting for the wedding. Mrs. W. Cotford was the organist.

The bride wore a white taffeta gown with full-length net skirt topped with net and lace bodice featuring lily point sleeves and scalloped neckline. Her sweetheart headress held a chapel length veil and she carried red roses and white stephanotis. Her father gave her in marriage.

Miss Ruth Parby, Courtenay, B.C., as bridal attendant, wore yellow net and lace, with a blue crownless hat and carried yellow gladioli and blue delphiniums. Leslie Batchelor was best man, and ushers, R. Andrews and McDonald Webb.

Reception was in Acacia Guest House, at Shawnigan, where a silver and white wedding cake was cut. Leslie Batchelor proposed a toast to the bride, who presented her wedding bouquet to her grandmother, Mrs. Lily Emery.

For traveling Mrs. Batchelor chose a blue suit with navy and pink accessories and corsage of pink roses.

Among those who attended the wedding were Mrs. Emery, Mr. and Mrs. B. Webb, Mrs. R. Parby, Mr. and Mrs. E. Fancett, Mr. and Mrs. G. R. C. Hebdon, Mr. and Mrs. R. Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Andrews, Charles Dodsworth and Miss Myra Ranson.

Satin, Lace Worn by Bride For Wedding in St. John's

A gown of white satin with a fitted bodice of lace over satin styled with sweetheart neckline and lily point sleeves was choice of Mildred Elizabeth Duncan for her marriage to Richard Irvin Ruggles last Saturday evening.

A flaring satin skirt swept into a full court train and tiny lace over satin buttons decorated the back of the bodice from neck to waist. A coronet of seed pearls held the full-length veil of embroidered nylon illusion net. The bride wore a double strand of pearls and matching earrings and carried Johanna Hill roses with stephanotis in cascade design. She was given in marriage by her father.

St. John's Anglican Church was decorated with white and shrimp pink gladioli and guests' pews were marked with small nosegays of sweet peas and white ribbon. Canon George Biddle performed the ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Duncan, 115 Olive Street, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Ruggles of Toronto, Ont. Miss Marjorie Patterson, Minneapolis, Minn., sang "The Lord's Prayer" during signing of the register and the organist was Mrs. R. Chubb.

Mrs. George Forbes, matron of honor, and bridesmaids, Miss Muriel Evans, Duncan, V.I., and Miss Shirley Wise, Vancouver, a cousin of the bride, were gowned alike in dresses of filmy nylon chiffon and net over taffeta in shrimp pink and pale blue respectively. They wore headresses of fresh flowers and carried bouquets of shrimp pink and white gladioli.

Dr. William C. Wonders was best man, and ushers, Ronald Savage, Vancouver, a cousin of the bride; Sterling Ruggles, Surrey, B.C., and Kenneth Waterhouse, Sumner, Wash., cousins of the groom.

A reception was held at Olde England Inn where rooms were decorated with complimenting pink and white gladioli. The bride's table was centred with a three-tier cake topped with pink sweet peas and flanked by tall white candles. G. H. Savage, Duncan, V.I., proposed the bride's toast.

In the receiving line were Mrs. Duncan wearing rose beige crepe with lace jacket, matching accessories, and Mrs. Ruggles in turquoise lace over taffeta. Both wore pink rosebud corsages.

The couple are now on a motor trip to San Francisco where the honeymoon will be spent. Mrs. Ruggles traveled in a navy blue wool dressmaker suit with light grey wool topcoat, luggage, brown hat and accessories and gardenia corsage. On return they will live in Vancouver.

Senior YWCA Program

The program committee of the YWCA met recently, with Mrs. A. G. H. Tisdall in the chair, to plan fall and winter program schedules and the "Y" Open House, which will be in September.

This year in addition to regular classes there will be two groups of gymnastics, one at a convenient morning hour for women, the other, early evening, in order not to conflict with evening engagements. Instructor for this course will be Mrs. Katherine Moore, who has an excellent Swedish background of physical training.

All age groups within the "Y" participate in square dancing, with senior members coming under the most able instruction of Mrs. J. B. Hudson. The latest steps will be taught to those in the advanced group who register.

Regular senior program is as follows:

Monday, 7-9 (last Monday each month, program council); Tuesday, 8-10, sewing instruction; Laurel Club.

WHY GROW OLD?

Femininity is attractive in a woman. By this I do not mean the fainting, clinging, "sensitive," fluttery-gestured type. I do mean tenderness, warmth, poise and grace.

Whenever a woman adopts masculine gestures, postures and language, she loses a lot of her charm. This is a danger because today so many women are fighting for their place in the business world, so many are doing work which was once considered man's only, and because she is allowed too much freedom.

Really charming women look almost as feminine in their slacks as they do in their evening gowns. The femininity I am writing about today is really a question of attitude and personality, although clothes, too, are an important frame for the picture.

Women can profit, however, from adopting some of the masculine viewpoints, so long as they do not lose those which are especially the forte of a lovely woman. Most women worry more than men do. We could learn from men to take things more as they come.

Women as a whole are more emotional than men. Perhaps we should become more casual about things which are not really vital. In this way our minds would be freer from panic for logical thinking and we would surely be more pleasant companions.

Perhaps we should try to bring more organization into our work. While we do not want our homes to turn into cold efficiency machines, much peace and leisure would result from more household organization.

The average man is better informed about world affairs and what's going on because he is more directly and constantly in touch with the world outside his home.

Really charming women look almost as feminine in their slacks as they do in their evening gowns.

Don't forget the flowers and perfume and warmth and understanding and you will profit by a little masculine thinking.

Visiting Princess Named Leader In the Teen-Age Fashion Group

LONDON (BUP) — Princess Alexandra of Kent, now in Canada on tour, is emerging for the first time as a world leader of teen-age fashions.

Her mother, the Duchess of Kent, renowned as one of Britain's foremost authorities on fashion, has been carefully grooming her and helping her select a wardrobe for the tour. It includes three new "after-six" gowns—all of "off-the-peg" design.

"The princess' stock size is 12," said L. Carr-Jones, managing director of Susan Small, Ltd., the London fashion house which made them. "Her Royal Highness has an ideal figure, the size of a perfect mannequin, with a 35-inch bust and a 24-inch waist. This tiny waist will be emphasized by the line of her dresses."

Each dress has a very full skirt, is of mid-calf length, under which the princess will wear one permanently stiffened petticoat and two soft petticoats.

FAVORS TAFFETA

One dress, in taffeta shantung with a heavy slub, has been made in resida green shot with blush rose. It has a wide neckline which stands up from shoulder to shoulder at the back of the dress, making a frame for the princess' creamy skin, plunging modestly in front to an off-centre point, where it is caught by a rose. A seam runs from this point to the waist, and the bodice is softly gathered to it. The gown has tiny plain sleeves.

The second dress is also in taffeta, which is light in weight and easy to pack. It is a simple cocktail - into - evening model, with a neat jacket covering a sleeveless dress. This jacket has a boat neckline, edged with a one-inch band of velvet, which also trims the four-buttoned fastening. It fits to the waist with a belt of velvet, and has three-quarter length sleeves. The bodice of the gown is tight fitting and follows the empire trend.

Finally, the princess chose a cocktail dress with a pink rose design on printed taffeta. Again the neckline was very wide, dipping to a modest plunge. The bodice fitted tightly. A self belt nips the waist. The sleeves are above-elbow length, with a pushed-up effect, and a knot right on the shoulder, where neckline and sleeve meet.

"The Duchess of Kent and the princess chose the gowns from more than 50 models," Carr-Jones said in an interview. "Like all under-20s, the princess had very 'definite' ideas about her clothes, although she has tremendous faith in her mother's judgment and sought her advice frequently. For instance, the princess wanted a black dress, but the duchess suggested that a softer shade would be much prettier on a girl of 17. So the princess chose light green.

"She's a beautiful girl, an ideal model, with good shoulders, skin and an excellent bone structure. Her mother, the duchess, is one of the world's best-dressed women, and her daughter, in my opinion, will also be a leader of world fashion. I judged her as having an unusual, an innate sense of style, rare in one so young," he said.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Cook, 2897 Parkview Drive, and the groom, a son of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Cameron, Cloverdale, B.C. Baskets of pink and white gladioli formed a setting for the wedding and during signing of the register, organist Mrs. Wilmshurst played "At Dawning" and "Because."

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father. She was gown in traditional white satin and nylon tulle, styled with fitted bodice featuring a halter neckline, a satin jacket with Queen Anne collar and three-quarter sleeves and very full, hooped bouffant skirt with deep flounce of tulle edged with imported Point de Venise lace. Maid of honor, Miss Joan Taylor, was in pale blue net and taffeta and the bridesmaids, Miss Anne Draper and Miss Marlene Whiteley, were in pale mauve and turquoise gowns. Their headresses were bandeaux of matching tulle held with tiny flowers and their heart-shaped bouquets of white roses and sweet peas in tones to match their gowns.

Writing Pays Off in Trips Round The World; 40 Books Published

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Twenty years ago Miss Dorien was working in an office in London, Eng. She had dreams of making writing a career and when that became a reality of traveling to the far-off places of the world.

It was an ambitious project that would have remained a dream with many less determined than Miss Dorien. She started writing articles. They were published. Then came her first novel, "Fools in Paradise." It was published in 1934. In the next four years she wrote nine novels and all of them were published in England with several translated into Spanish and Swedish.

In 20 years she has written 26 novels, all of them popular stories.

Miss Ray Dorien's dream has come true.

Today, this successful author has traveled several times around the world and has found her way into many fascinating byways that evade the everyday tourist. Her travels led to another series of books, quite different to her novels.

"They are my 'venturing books,'" she tells you, "and they are quite popular in England." Three of these books are already in print and are named "Venturing Abroad," "Venturing to Australia" and "Venturing to New Zealand."

A new one, "Venturing to Canada" is in the process of writing. Miss Dorien has been in Canada since early May and she has already traveled across many of the provinces. She has been to Labrador and Newfoundland, has seen the cities of Montreal, Ottawa, Winnipeg, Prince Rupert and Vancouver and has stayed in the Rocky Mountains at Jasper Park. She is now spending a few days on Vancouver Island and hopes to visit Kitimat before starting her journey back to the British Isles.

HUMAN INTEREST

She has traveled by boat, train, motor cars, buses and, in her own words has even "flew a hit." Miss Dorien is looking for "human interest" stories, especially in connection with the new settlers in this country.

"There is certainly a jolly lot to see," she says, when you ask her what impressions she has made of Canada, and, she adds, "your country is so immense it would frighten some people, you know."

"It is so different from other countries. Every province has its own outlook, every province is growing and developing in its own way and yet every province is part of one great pattern."

Edmonton she describes as

Beach Party

Child care and training committee of Victoria Chapter 25, Women of the Moose, were hostesses Saturday evening at a successful beach party held at the home of Mrs. S. Wetherell, Agate Lane, Cordova Bay, attended by 130 members and friends of the chapter. Mr. and Mrs. H. Guernsey were visitors from California. The evening was spent in community singing to the accompaniment of accordion and guitar. Hot dogs, sandwiches and tea were served.

Chairman of publicity, Mooseheart Alumni, library, ritual and hospital will bring reports of activities to be mailed to headquarters to the business meeting of the chapter, to be held on Thursday evening at K of P Hall, 723 Cormorant Street, at 7.30. Election of officers will take place, to fill vacancies due to illness.

MISS RAY DORIEN

"galloping"; Winnipeg, "an amazing mixture of peoples"; Victoria, "a city of flowers."

She has been amazed many times at the things people do in Canada and cites as an instance the day a mainline train stopped for a "breather" in the Bulkley Valley, "where there was a great waterfall."

"There we were," she says, "a modern train filled with American tourists—and the conductor gave them time to look at the waterfall and take many pictures. Extraordinary!" This is Miss Dorien's third trip to Canada and she says she hopes to return again before too long.

In Victoria she has been staying at the Cherry Bank Hotel while visiting friends, Mr. and Mrs. Neil McGillivray, Quadra Street.

"Victoria is a tempting place," she says, "it takes one's mind off work—and that is bad—Or is it good?"

Despite this fact, Miss Dorien expects to leave this city on Wednesday to continue her quest for material for her next "venturing" book.

"When it is finished I will

Change Can't Come Soon Enough

Roger Monteith, well-known Fort Street sporting goods merchant, can hardly wait for the city to get rid of its one-way street system. He and other merchants have raised strenuous objection to one-way traffic ever since its introduction, January 20. The Times' artist has tried to satisfy Mr.

Monteith by crossing out part of the one-way street sign he finds objectionable. He still doesn't look too happy. Wednesday afternoon he will be fully satisfied. City workmen intend to remove this and other signs altogether, and reopen street to two-way traffic at 3 p.m. See story, Page 11.

Vargas Kills Self; Brazil in Turmoil

U.S. WOULD DEFEND FORMOSA ISLES—DULLES

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. State Secretary Dulles said today American forces would be justified in defending some Nationalist-held islands between Formosa and the Chinese mainland from any Communist attack.

Dulles told a press conference it would be up to American military leaders to decide which islands in addition to Formosa they want to defend as part of their overall strategy for aiding the Chinese Nationalist stronghold.

Dulles spoke up in the face of talk by Peiping of "liberating" the island of Formosa, now held by Chiang Kai-shek and the Chinese Nationalists. U.S. leaders have been inclined to discount the Peiping talk.

President Eisenhower already is on record as saying the U.S. 7th Fleet would protect Formosa from a Red attack. Dulles appeared to be extending this line of reasoning by including some of the smaller Chiang-held islands near Formosa.

U.S. Urges Mendes-France To Push EDC

Treaty Slated for Vote In Assembly Next Week

PARIS (UP)—The United States urged Premier Pierre Mendes-France today to attempt to push ratification of the European Defense Community through the National Assembly, informed sources reported.

Mendes-France returned to Paris this morning from the Brussels EDC conference and talks Monday at Chartwell, England, with British Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

He met almost immediately with U.S. Ambassador to France C. Douglas Dillon to report on the Churchill meeting and his failure to win modification at Brussels of the proposed joint western army plan.

The sources said Dillon urged the 47-year-old premier to try to jam the EDC ratification through the assembly.

Mendes-France was said by the sources to have told Dillon he would put the treaty up to the assembly next week for a vote, but would not put pressure on the House by making it the subject of a vote of confidence in his government.

Jealousy Cause For Suicide, Double Murder

16-Year-Old Girl Shot to Death

BRANDON, Man. (CP)—A soldier's jealousy on seeing a girl he liked with a younger soldier was blamed today in what police described as a double murder and suicide Monday night at nearby Camp Shilo.

The girl lived at the camp with her parents, Cpl. and Mrs. Edgar W. Hamer.

Cpl. Hamer, a member of the Royal Canadian Engineers, blamed the soldier's jealousy for the shooting.

FOUND BODIES

An unidentified non-commissioned officer stumbled upon the bodies of the girl and one soldier when he rushed into an open field, 50 yards east of the Shilo townsite, to investigate two shots. Both had been slain by bullets from a .303 rifle.

The victims were Yvonne Hamer, 16, of Camp Shilo, a 17-year-old soldier companion and a 28-year-old soldier. Army authorities withheld the soldiers' names until next-of-kin are notified.

The girl was described as a "very good looking, petite brunette."

Her companion was a husky, six-foot, blond youth. He was wearing a uniform.

The older soldier was described as five feet nine inches tall and becoming bald. He was dressed in civilian clothes.

IN BARRACKS

Shortly afterwards, the second soldier was found semi-conscious in a barracks room of the Royal Canadian Engineers with a .303 bullet wound in his chest. He died a short time later.

Speaking of the second soldier, Cpl. Hamer said: "This guy was so crazy about her, and I guess he couldn't stand anyone else being with her. That's about all there is to it."

The girl was a native of Stockton, Man., and had lived at the camp with her parents for seven years. She left school last year.

His escape from Oakalla prison farm Monday was effected with the same daring he used in outwitting guards while at a Vancouver hospital in March. At that time he arranged to go to hospital with a simulated back injury.

CAUGHT IN EAST

He dived from a window clad only in a nightshirt. But police picked him up in Montreal and shipped him back to Oakalla.

Monday he was being escorted from the exercise yards to the cells when he made a dash for the fence surrounding the prison pigpen.

Search centred in Surrey after a motorist told police he gave a man answering Dawley's description a lift across the Pattullo Bridge. Later, police said he was "positively identified" being given a lift in a car heading for the border.

Dawley had been serving a six-month term for assault of a Duncan officer when he made his first break last March. He was also awaiting two charges of car theft and one of possession of house-breaking tools.

His flight may have been spurred by desperation when reports emanated from RCMP officers that an habitual criminal charge was also to be laid. It could mean that Dawley would spend the rest of his life behind bars.

Livingston P. Pierce, publicity chairman of the Youngstown centennial, said Miss Chadwick will make the attempt in connection with the

Fires Bullet Into Heart Night of Wrangling Ends in Tragic Action

RIO DE JANEIRO (Reuters)—All members of the Brazilian cabinet offered their resignations to the new president, Cafe Filho, this afternoon, the Brazilian radio announced.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (UP)—President Getulio Vargas, 71, wrote a suicide note bequeathing: "My death to the hatred of my enemies" early today, then fired a fatal bullet into his heart as a bitter climax to Brazil's political crisis. "I regret I was unable to do all I wanted for the humble," the note said.

The suicide followed a night of wrangling and a dawn decision reached in conference with his cabinet and high army and air force officials who had demanded his resignation. Vargas had agreed to a 90-day "leave of absence."

He had been in power much of the time for nearly 25 years. Brazil's Vice-President Joao Cafe took over automatically as head of state.

At first, Rio was stunned by the news. Then, as all radio stations played funeral music and flags on government buildings flew at half staff, Vargas sympathizers began roaming the streets.

POSTERS TORN DOWN

They tore down election posters of the opposition Union Democratica Nacional Party, and attacked newstands having copies of Tribuna Da Imprensa, whose editor, Carlos Lacerda, once was ranked by Vargas as "my number one enemy."

The political crisis resulted from an attack, presumably aimed at Lacerda, which caused the death of Air Force Maj. Rubens F. Vaz on Aug. 5. Lacerda escaped, though wounded.

The demonstrators overturned and set fire to three newspaper delivery trucks rushing afternoon editions to newstands. The trucks belonged to the afternoon newspaper Oglobo.

But while the demonstrators aimed most of their fury at Lacerda, he and his family were reported safe at Galeao airbase near the city.

The new president decried Vargas' suicide but called upon Brazilians to "render Dr. Getulio

Who'll Win Eider Down? Your Goose Good as Any

POMONA, Calif. (AP)—If you read in your sports pages next month where Foot Goose and Fancy Free ran one-two at Elder Downs, don't be misled into thinking a new horse-racing track has opened.

Elder Downs is the name of the new 70-foot track at the Los Angeles county fair grounds and the ducks will be off and waddling over it Sept. 17-Oct. 3.

Yes, sir, Indian Runner ducks, noted for speed and egg-laying ability, are going to hot-foot it over Elder Downs daily for the amusement of thousands of spectators. There will be no parimutual betting, however.

handicap opening day is Native Gander, but he is suffering from a recurring ailment. Eligibility rules place no ban on ducks with names resembling eggs.

Winners of the bigger races will get an extra handful of choice grain, and their portraits will be painted on a large mural.

The ducks are trained to run over the track, which is patterned after the quarter-horse tracks, by placing grain at the end of the lane. They learn fast, and the few who disdain the sport are retired to the laying bins, where they really starve. One set a European record of 360 eggs in 365 days.

On Sunday Winnie Roach, Leuzler of Toronto, covered 10 miles of the Lake Ontario course before she was forced to give up and was pulled from the water. Winnie this summer tried to beat Flo's record on Catalina Channel, but was defeated by cold and tides.

The girl lived at the camp with her parents, Cpl. and Mrs. Edgar W. Hamer.

Cpl. Hamer, a member of the Royal Canadian Engineers, blamed the soldier's jealousy for the shooting.

An unidentified non-commissioned officer stumbled upon the bodies of the girl and one soldier when he rushed into an open field, 50 yards east of the Shilo townsite, to investigate two shots. Both had been slain by bullets from a .303 rifle.

The victims were Yvonne Hamer, 16, of Camp Shilo, a 17-year-old soldier companion and a 28-year-old soldier. Army authorities withheld the soldiers' names until next-of-kin are notified.

The girl was described as a "very good looking, petite brunette."

Her companion was a husky, six-foot, blond youth. He was wearing a uniform.

The older soldier was described as five feet nine inches tall and becoming bald. He was dressed in civilian clothes.

IN BARRACKS
Shortly afterwards, the second soldier was found semi-conscious in a barracks room of the Royal Canadian Engineers with a .303 bullet wound in his chest. He died a short time later.

Speaking of the second soldier, Cpl. Hamer said: "This guy was so crazy about her, and I guess he couldn't stand anyone else being with her. That's about all there is to it."

The girl was a native of Stockton, Man., and had lived at the camp with her parents for seven years. She left school last year.

City Convict Eludes Police In Jail Escape

Clifford Dawley Heads for Border

All Vancouver Island police departments have been alerted by RCMP following the second prison escape in six months by Victoria's most notorious criminal, Clifford Dawley.

Dawley, 44-year-old son of a former Esquimalt police chief, blazed his way into headlines here and in San Francisco in the "roaring thirties" through spectacular gun battles with police.

City police authorities said today that they did not believe Dawley would go into hiding in this vicinity.

"He is too well known here and would be cutting off simple escape routes were he to come back to the Island," they thought.

His escape from Oakalla prison farm Monday was effected with the same daring he used in outwitting guards while at a Vancouver hospital in March. At that time he arranged to go to hospital with a simulated back injury.

He dived from a window clad only in a nightshirt. But police picked him up in Montreal and shipped him back to Oakalla.

Monday he was being escorted from the exercise yards to the cells when he made a dash for the fence surrounding the prison piggery.

Search centred in Surrey after a motorist told police he gave a man answering Dawley's description a lift across the Pattullo Bridge. Later, police said he was "positively identified" being given a lift in a car heading for the border.

Dawley had been serving a six-month term for assault of a Duncan officer when he made his first break last March. He was also awaiting two charges of car theft and one of possessing house-breaking tools.

His flight may have been spurred by desperation when reports emanated from RCMP officers that a habitual criminal charge was also to be laid. It could mean that Dawley would spend the rest of his life behind bars.

Canadian women's champion Marlene Stewart of Fonthill, Ont., was the only Canadian woman to win a match. She defeated Frances Stephens, Britain's number one woman golfer, 3 and 2.

Miss Dorothy Herbertson of Victoria was defeated 1 up by Mrs. George Balentine.

2 Teen-Agers Beat, Robbed Taxi-Driver

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two teen-aged sailors were sentenced to six strokes of the strap each and a combined total of 66 months definite and indefinite in prison today.

Sentenced to 18 months definite and 18 months indefinite on charges of robbery with violence was Tony Farrington, 19, of HMCS Ontario. A shipmate, Martin Wise, 17, was given a one-year definite and an 18-month indefinite term.

The stiff sentences arose from the brutal beating of taxi driver Benjamin Morris last week. Hospital attendants said 36 stitches were needed to close wounds on Morris' head, inflicted with two heavy iron bars.

Police court was told the sailors took $15 from the semi-conscious taxi driver to "stretch from the brutal beating of taxi driver" their leave.

Brazil Dictator Suicide Victim

Vargas Ends Life With Bullet; Country in Turmoil

RIO DE JANEIRO (Reuters)—All members of the Brazilian cabinet offered their resignations to the new president, Cafe Filho, this afternoon, the Brazilian radio announced.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (UP)—President Getulio Vargas, 71, wrote a suicide note bequeathing: "My death to the hatred of my enemies" early today, then fired a fatal bullet into his heart as a bitter climax to Brazil's political crisis. "I regret I was unable to do all I wanted for the humble," the note said.

The suicide followed a night of wrangling and a dawn decision reached in conference with his cabinet and high army and air force officials who had demanded his resignation. Vargas had agreed to a 90-day "leave of absence."

He had been in power much of the time for nearly 25 years. Brazil's Vice-President Cafe Filho took over automatically as head of state.

At first, Rio was stunned by the news. Then, as all radio stations played funeral music and flags on government buildings flew at half staff, Vargas sympathizers began roaming the streets.

POSTERS TORN DOWN
They tore down election posters of the opposition Union Democratica Nacional Party and attacked newstands having copies of Tribuna Da Imprensa, whose editor, Carlos Lacerda, once was ranked by Vargas as "my number one enemy."

The political crisis resulted from an attack, presumably aimed at Lacerda, which caused the death of Air Force Maj. Rubens F. Vaz on Aug. 5. Lacerda escaped, though wounded.

The demonstrators overturned and set fire to three newspaper delivery trucks rushing afternoon editions to newsstands. The trucks belonged to the afternoon newspaper O Globo.

But while the demonstrators aimed most of their fury at Lacerda, he and his family were reported safe at Galeao airbase near the city.

The new president decried Vargas, suicide but called upon Brazilians to "render Dr. Getulio Vargas the honors he deserves."

He pledged as his "first commitment" always to give the humble protection which Vargas always gave them.

The first Brazilian people knew of their president's suicide was an announcement by the official Radio Nacional. It said Vargas had killed himself at 8:35 a.m. (7:35 a.m. PDT). A formal announcement from the presidential palace followed.
